Picayune man dies in crash near Kiln

Vehicle collided with Mack truck

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

A Picayune man died in northern Hancock County Thursday morning when his car collided with a Mack truck.

According to the Mississippi Highway Patrol, Glen Miller, 54, was driving north on Hwy. 43 about one mile north of Hwy. 608 when his 1995 Pontiac crossed the center line and struck the left side of a Mack truck driven in the southbound lane by Mark Cospelich of Long Beach.

Miller's vehicle careened off the roadway and came to rest facing southwest, according to a report by Mississippi Highway Patrolman Sammy Ray. Cospelich, 43, was uninjured.

Miller was pronounced dead at the scene. He was not wearing a seatbelt, according to the MHP report.

The accident occurred at around 7:15 a.m. Thursday. The wreckage blocked the road for nearly three hours, according to the report.

Coast Guard seizes 10,000 pounds of illegal shrimp

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Coast Guard terminated the voyage of a commercial fishing vessel Friday morning approximately five miles east of Chandelier Island, after it was discovered that it had several safety violations, and seized its catch of 10,000 pounds of shrimp due to a lack of federally required marine conservation measures.

The Coast Guard was notified by the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (DMS) that the crew of the 79-foot shrimping vessel Mariachi, homeported in Brownsville, Texas, was being uncooperative in providing commercial fishing documentation during their boarding Thursday. A boarding team from Coast Guard Station Pascagoula was dispatched to assist the DMS and boarded the boat Thursday at approximately 1 p.m.

After several unsuccessful attempts to retrieve the boat's fishing nets, the crew of Coast Guard Cutter Seahawk, homeported in Carrabelle, Fla., was also sent to assist with the boarding and relieve the Station Pascagoula boarding team.

The Seahawk's boarding team observed several safety violations including: more than 200 gallons of oil in the bilge; expired flares; unusable life jackets; and an improperly installed emergency position indicating radion beacon (EPIRB).

The Mariachi's voyage was terminated for these safety violations

Waveland developer gets OK to continue project

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Local developer Rodney Corr of Corr Financial LLC won the right last week to continue building on several 50 foot wide lots he owns on Ireland St. in Shoreline Park. A 1997 law changed the required front footage in the county to 75 feet if contiguous lots are owned by one property owner.

But Corr said he had invested considerable funds in the properties, including installing sewer hookups at each site and could not afford to lose the right to build on the fourteen lots. Turning the properties into 75 foot lots would not be an option, he said, because of the prep work already completed.

Corr said he plans to build houses compatible with the size of the lots, basically 1,500 square foot houses, and that he plans to honor all the required setbacks. After considerable debate, the board voted unanimously to allow Corr to build on all fourteen lots, but cautioned him that this would be the one and only time that such an exception would be allowed.

According to the 1997 law if a property owner owns two or more consecutive 50 foot lots, to build on those lots requires a 75 foot frontage. For example, if a property owner has two lots, only one structure would be allowed. However, if an individual owns or purchases a single 50 foot lot, than they will be allowed to build on that lot. How the law affects property already containing structures is not clear. The county planning and zoning office can clarify questions about property division and required lot size.

In other business:

• Developer Rusty Miller presented a site plan for the first building proposed for the Stennis Tech Park Inc. to be located at the intersection of Interstate 10 and Hwy. 603. The building is a two story, 1,600 foot space and will face Hwy. 603. A groundbreaking ceremony will be held for the tech park on Friday, May 28 at 11 a.m.

• Approval was given for

Phase II of the Firetower Oaks Subdivision, a fifteen lot subdivision about 3 miles north of Hwy. 603. Kiln Water District will provide water service and on site systems will provide wastewater treatment.

• Chandler Reynolds was given approval for the addition of four rental cabins to his RV park at 14900 Reynolds Rd. in Pearlington, pending an elevation certificate for each cabin.

• A variance for setback requirements for a boat storage facility was approved at 16820 Kapalama Dr. Michael Cowan will open the facility.

• A zoning change was granted to Daniel T. Rush and Sam Larosa for a 2.117 acre piece of property they own at the intersection of Vic Faye Rd. and Kapalama Dr. The zoning was changed from A-1 agricultural to C-1 neighborhood commercial for the purpose of building office and retail space.

• David Malley was granted a conditional use permit to open a health club, coffee shop and office facility at Tina Ladner Vic Faye Rd.

Minnesota native devotes himself to volunteer service in Waveland, BSL

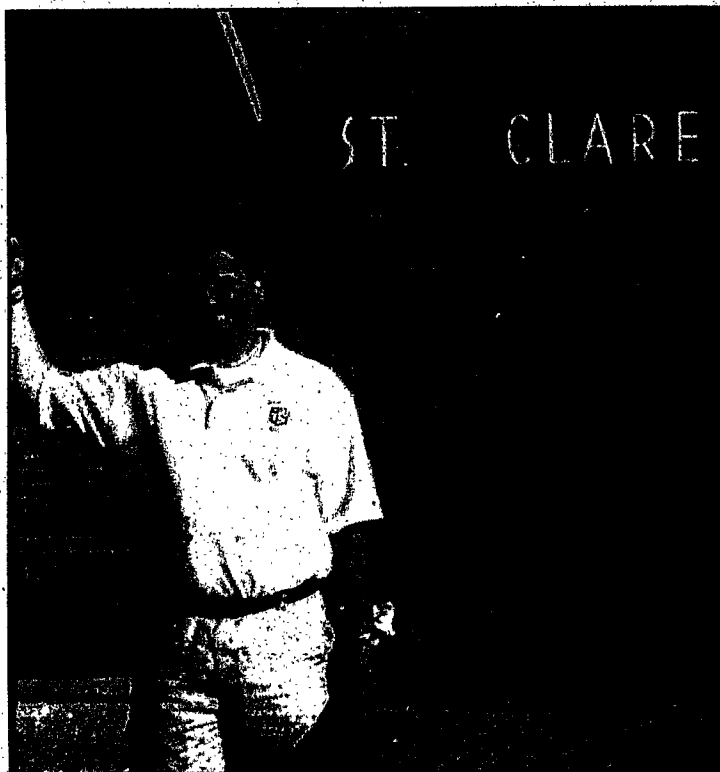

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

When the opportunity to serve with AmeriCorps fell through due to a lack of federal funding, Erich Hoffer was disappointed, but determined to find another way to volunteer his time. He wanted to give a year of his life to volunteer service before finishing his college education. Hoffer graduated with a political science/pre-law degree from St. John's University in Collegeville, Minnesota and planned to go on to law school.

When Brother Henry called him from New Orleans to see if he would be interested in serving in Mississippi, he was a little skeptical at first, he said. It would be his first trip to the South.

And his family was a little hesitant to send him half way across the country.

Once here however, he quickly got in to LSU football games and the great winter weather, so different from his native Minnesota. And as he made friends, he began to feel at home.

Volunteer Erich Hoffer from Minnesota, divides his time between St. Clare Elementary School and St. Stanislaus where he is a P.E. teacher, a history teacher and a coach.

"It didn't meet the expectations of what I thought of when I thought of Mississippi. People have taken me into their home and made me feel welcome," he said. "I thought I was coming to give a lot and instead, I have received so much more in return."

Hoffer divides his time between St. Clare

Elementary School, where he teaches physical education classes for all grades and St. Stanislaus, where he teaches 8th grade U.S. history, and coaches a little football and basketball, all as a volunteer through the New Orleans Volunteer Service and the Brothers of the Sacred Heart. The kids have changed his life in many ways, he said.

For one, he may not be returning to law school, at least not right away. He hopes to stay in the area and continue teaching. The family atmosphere at St. Clare, he says, has been a large part of his changed way of thinking. And he is very excited about being made an honorary distinguished citizen of the year by the City of Waveland.

"It is an absolute pleasure to work with Erich," said St. Clare principal Mark Cumella.

"He is a delightful young man and the children are drawn to him because he is so dedicated and sincere. We feel fortunate to have him as a part of the St. Clare family."

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Bay native spotted in L.A. newspaper

On Thursday morning I received the copy of a story which was published in the L.A. Times on the Conflict in Iraq. The story was written by Times staffer Monte Morin, and the interesting part was a comment by a local soldier.

The article was about the town of alKut, Iraq, where the U.S. Army hires suspected guerillas to rebuild an amusement park.

The article stated, "This time they'll be here with picks and shovels instead of AKs and RPGs," said Army Capt. Leonard Kergosien, referring to Assault Rifles and rocket-propelled grenades.

Cousin Irv noted on the articles that he thought Kergosien was a Bay St. Louis native.

Anyway, I call Ames Kergosien, Leonard's father and told him I had the copy of the article and he immediately came by to pick it up.

He said this is great because Leonard's wife and children are here visiting at this time.

A month ago we had an article about Capt. Leonard Kergosien receiving a Bronze Star for his efforts in Iraq.

Old cousin Irv, even residing in the Los Angeles area tries to keep up with local happenings in his native Bay St. Louis.

Thanks Irv for a copy of the L.A. Times article.

A great program each summer for area youngsters is the Hancock County Library System's Summer Reading Program.

"Step to the Beat READ" is the theme for this year's program, which is open to children and young adults, pre-school age through eighth grade.

Registrations begin on Monday, with programs and activities beginning on Monday, June 7.

Programs will be held on Mondays at 10:30 a.m. at the Waveland Public Library; Tuesdays, at the Pearllington Public Library; Wednesdays 10:30 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis Public Library; and Thursdays, 10:30 a.m. at the Kiln Public Library.

Each registrant receives a reading record, book bag and pencil which to record books read, and those who complete the program will receive a certificate.

This is a great opportunity for youngsters to become more informed and also have a great time at the special programs to take place during June at our Public Libraries.

To register, children should go to the library branch nearest them, and visit a branch at least four times during the program and check out at least six books between May 26 and June 21.

Our Library System has so much to offer of community and the staff is one of the Best in the State of Mississippi.

Have a great summer kids!

Defense bill will benefit South Miss.

On Thursday May 20, the U.S. House of Representatives overwhelmingly passed the Fiscal Year 2005 Defense Authorization Act (H.R. 4200).

I am pleased with several provisions of the $422.2 billion legislation that will mean great things for South Mississippi and our nation's ability to defend itself. I feel that our nations present military challenges should remind every American of our responsibility to provide special attention to the needs of our service members and their families. The Senate must pass its own version of the bill. The two

IN CONGRESS

By Representative
Gene Taylor

versions must be approved in a conference committee composed of members of both chambers before it is sent to the President for signature.

As many South Mississippians already know, I am an opponent of the Base Realignment and Closure

Commission. The House Armed Service Committee approved an amendment to H.R. 4200 that delays the BRAC review for two more years. Although I have long sought to repeal BRAC completely, delaying the commission is certainly a victory and gives us more time to expose the dangers of the policy this commission serves. Closing bases is a hindrance to our national security and has not saved the country money. The idea of concentrating more of our force in fewer places allows for our enemies to inflict greater damage with a single attack.

South Mississippi is the proud home of several military installations, and I know our citizens see their value in terms of national defense and local economic impact.

Many veterans throughout the years have chosen to move to South Mississippi for their retirement. The low cost of living, beautiful

FROM THE SENATE

By U.S. Senator
Trent Lott

Base Closure

By a razor thin 49 to 47 vote, the Senate narrowly missed an opportunity to put overseas military bases ahead of domestic facilities in the anticipated 2005 base closure round.

I introduced this amendment because a growing number in Congress feel it's time that we radically rethink America's antiquated commitment to aging Cold-War-era military bases overseas, especially in Western Europe where politically temperamental nations like Germany and France should start shouldering their own defense burden.

The close vote shows support for changing or delaying the base closure process is growing, and this vote signals a significant shift in the base closure issue.

The Pentagon plans to close 25 percent of all domestic military bases, without first reviewing the expansive and expensive commitments in former Cold War hotspots.

In my view, that's backwards. Jeopardizing already busy domestic installations - especially training facilities like Naval Air Station Meridian or Columbus Air Force Base - would be foolish in the midst of a war.

Most Americans feel we cannot and should not harbor the Cold War specter forever, and this amendment recognizes that, compelling us forward.

It helps us better plan for the inevitable restructuring. For instance, a new report by the Congressional Budget Office indicates that four previous base closure rounds have left the U.S. Army with little or no excess to receive troops and equipment returning from overseas. So, a base closure round targeted at 25 percent of our home bases would severely limit our ability to expand the armed forces and restructure them.

There are 721 bases around the world - 310 in Germany alone. We have about 100,000 military personnel in Germany, including heavy armored divisions placed there to deter a Soviet invasion.

The Soviet Union is a decade in the political grave. Germany is reunified. The Russians aren't going to attack Western Europe, so why do we need this level and type of commitment there? My amendment simply says let's do an analysis of America's 21st Century overseas needs.

Let's indeed do some real and dramatic restructuring and realignment starting in the places most obvious. Then, and only then, would we move forward with a domestic base closure round if we find it's needed.

The House has passed a separate base closure amendment, attempting not to redefine base closure and weight it toward overseas bases.

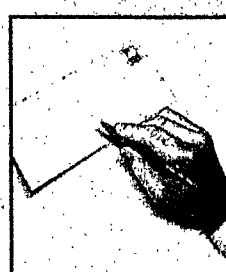

Instead, the House's measure simply seeks to delay the base closure process until 2007. That makes sense, too. I've con-

Waveland Civic Association honors Sam Ladner as Citizen of the Year

The Waveland Civic Association members have recently selected Sam Ladner as Citizen of the Year for 2004.

Ladner was chosen by the membership of the Waveland Civic Association based on his commitment as a volunteer for many services.

He has been commander of the VFW Post 4808, Lakeshore for the past seven years. Ladner participates in at least 10 Turkey Shoots per year to benefit those in need.

He helps with Hancock County Schools by putting flags in every school. Ladner and his son Ronnie, with the help of VFW members, buy about 75 bikes a year for the past five years for community kids for Christmas.

He helps fire, storm and accident victims and also many people with medical expenses.

These benefits have been known to raise thousands of dollars for the needy.

"If there were more people like Sam Ladner in the community, we would have a much better place to live," the member said. "We need more people like him."

climate, and the accessibility to military base and hospital services are all attractive to retirees.

The possible loss of our bases is certainly a concern for retirees since they count on using the base hospital and commissaries. Additionally, the House has approved eliminating the social security offset under the Survivor Benefit Plan by increasing the annuities paid to survivors who are 62 or older from 35 percent of retired pay to 40 percent by September 2005 and up to 55 percent after March 2008.

We will keep our promise to the men and women who served in the past and whose efforts created the security that allowed our country to grow into the world leader that it is today.

The financial security of current survivors of military retirees is an important factor as we ask our young men and women to serve their country today and in the future.

I was also pleased with several other important provisions written into the bill, including my amendment to establish a new hazardous duty pay of $150 per month for members of the uniformed services who regularly perform duty as a member of a military fire-fighting crew.

Also, I was pleased to see the inclusion of my provision to limit the number of U.S. troops in Colombia to not more than 500 at any given time. In addition, Rep. Jo Ann Davis of Virginia and I co-authored an amendment to limit Navy leases of foreign cargo vessels to not more than one year, instead of the current five year leases allowed.

The goal of this amendment is to help force the Navy to use ships built in the U.S. for its military sealift needs.

Other items in H.R. 4200 concerning South Mississippi include:

LHA(R) - Advanced Procurement - $150 million in FY 2005 for Advanced Procurement for the LHA(R) future Amphibious Assault Ship replacement. Northrop Grumman Ingalls Shipyard is the builder of this vessel.

ioned landing craft. The rubber skirts for the LCACs are manufactured at Bell-Avon in Picayune.

Logistics Supply Vessel (LSV) Service Life Extension - $3.5 million in FY 2005 for bow-redesign and improvements by VT/Halter Marine in Moss Point for Army LSV crafts 1 through 6.

Advanced Composite Structures Program - $7 million in FY 2005 is required for fabrication and test of full-scale elements by Seemann Composites, Inc. in Gulfport for Virginia Class submarine.

Fire Retardant POSS Composite Development for Naval Fleet - $2.0 million in FY05 for development of fire retardant composite resin by Hybrid Plastics in Hattiesburg for Naval Applications.

The Fiscal Year 2005 Defense Authorization Act is vital to the proper defense of our nation.

The policies and projects that it includes will impact our military for years to come and will further increase South Mississippi's role in defending the country.

I am proud to know that the district I represent is ready to do its part.

I will continue to work for what is best for our military and the men and women who serve in uniform.

tended for months that base closure right now presents a two-pronged problem. Not only is the current base closure process wrong, the timing of closing bases in wartime is wrong as well.

I'm going to work in support of the House's provision when the Senate and House versions of our Department of Defense Authorization Bill are melded into one during the upcoming House/Senate conference.

I'll also be offering other amendments regarding base closure, which could include another initiative to compel a first shot at overseas installations. Given the close vote, I believe the Senate should reconsider a new version of my amendment, especially considering that four Senators were absent when the vote was called. I also am supporting an initiative that would prohibit the Pentagon from mothballing bases. Closed bases should be available to local communities for economic development and local job creation, not allowed to sit idle.

Military communities throughout America are concerned about base closure. Foreign communities ought to be more worried about U.S. military restructuring. Regardless of the outcome of this narrow vote, the question still begs an answer: What is more important - modern, expandable bases in America, or outdated, expendable bases overseas? Most taxpaying Americans know the answer.

Spotted seatrout workshop launches new initiative

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (DMR) and the University of Southern Mississippi's Gulf Coast Research Laboratory Thursday officially launched a new initiative to develop a spotted seatrout stocking program in Mississippi.

A workshop at Gulf Hills Conference Center laid the foundation for the Seatrout Population Enhancement Cooperative (SPEC), bringing together leading scientists involved in stock enhancement, managers of stocking programs in other states and more than 30 representatives of groups interested in the future of Mississippi's spotted seatrout, also known as speckled trout.

The joint project will test the effectiveness of using hatchery-raised fish to enhance Mississippi's seatrout population.

Dr. William Walker, DMR executive director, said the support of the Mississippi Legislature and the Secretary of State's Office made the effort possible through Tidelands Trust Funds with $75,000 for the 2003-2004 fiscal year and $250,000 for the upcoming fiscal year. He also cited the Coast Conservation Association for supporting the concept of a speckled trout hatchery.

"This meeting convinced me that this is something we can do," Walker said in his closing remarks. "We have a good team put together."

The workshop featured principles of the relatively new scientific discipline of marine stock enhancement, how stocking programs in South Carolina, Florida and Texas work, and efforts underway at the GCRL. Panel discussions included questions, issues and concerns raised by participating anglers, representatives of conservation groups, agency marine resource managers and scientists.

Keynote speaker Dr. Ken Leber of Mote Marine Laboratory in Sarasota, Fla., outlined the goals of stock enhancement research and its contribution to meeting the criteria for responsible stocking in marine and coastal environments.

David Abrego, facilities director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife effort, reported on his state's stocking program that stocks spotted seatrout and red drum in the millions per year. "In any particular bay on any given day, 20 percent of the fish -- caught by anglers or in our staff's bag seines -- are hatchery-reared fish," Abrego said.

Wallace Jenkins of the South Carolina Department of Natural Resources said his program's experience was that releasing juveniles of one to two inches long at the right season contributed more to the fishery in their pilot release areas than the more expensive option of rearing fish to a larger size for release. "For five years, 40 percent of 'age one' fish -- fish about 14 inches -- that were recaptured in stocking areas by both anglers and by our agency were from our hatchery," Jenkins said.

Bill Halstead of Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission noted that focusing resources and expertise cooperatively is crucial to a program's success.

"I don't think any one agency or group can do it alone," he said. "It takes the state agency, the university and stakeholders -- the anglers who expect to benefit from the effort."

Dr. William Hawkins, executive director of the GCRL, applauded DMR's vision in seeking a scientific basis for determining whether fish released into Mississippi waters will contribute to the fishery.

"We will be gathering scientific data for a specific purpose," Hawkins said. "The purpose of the SPEC project is to enhance the natural population where it needs enhancing. In addition to that, because this is new science and a new species for stock enhancement in Mississippi, there are beneficial spin-offs from this effort that we aren't even aware of yet."

Hawkins outlined plans now in the design stage for an 8,000-square-foot facility for holding brood stock for egg production, hatching and rearing spotted seatrout for release. He noted that the experiences of the GCRL team in the red snapper stock enhancement research and development project had demonstrated the importance of the tenets of responsible stock enhancement. GCRL and its partners in the red snapper research were the first to successfully answer questions about the effectiveness of releasing hatchery-raised red snapper in the marine environment.

"This is not an industrial process where you are going to stamp out a standard product," he said. "With each repetition of a sequence of procedures, we will develop and implement incremental changes that move us closer to the result we need. We could get brood stock from Texas right now, but we might be importing a genetically different fish, and we don't want to do that," Hawkins said. "This is a long-term commitment, not a one-year project."

He said in the first phase, the lab is capturing mature specks for brood stock from the area where their hatchery-reared offspring will be released.

DMR Deputy Director Dr. Fred Deegen is coordinating the joint research effort. Southern Miss researcher

Dr. Reg Blaylock of the GCRL is principal investigator. Working with him are Dr. Jeff Lotz, professor of coastal sciences, and GCRL research staff John Ogle, Casey Nicholson, Sue Barnes, Angelos Apeitos and Don Barnes.

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the state by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands, adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes. The GCRL and the Department of Coastal Sciences are part of the Southern Miss College of Science and Technology. Other Southern Miss units associated with GCRL are the Center for Fisheries Research and Development and the Gulf Coast Geospatial Center, both headquartered at the lab, and the J.L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi. For more information about the SPEC partners, visit www.dmr.state.ms.us and www.usm.edu/gcrl.

Fishing with the Hancock County 4-H

SUBMITTED BY MARGARET HOWELL
Hancock County 4-H
youth agent

We are so fortunate here in Hancock County because of the abundance of water, whether in our rivers, the Bay of St. Louis, or the Gulf of Mexico. With so many nearby water resources available, it's no wonder that the fishing opportunities in our area are limitless.

Some of the fondest memories I have growing up are those with my father fishing the Pascagoula River, the Gulf of Mexico, and Mississippi Sound. It was because of those memories of my father and the hours of time shared and fishing knowledge passed on, I have wanted to involve the youth in our county in a 4-H Sportfishing Program.

The National 4-H Sportfishing Program is a youth development program that provides a comprehensive curriculum designed to develop life skills while providing information and motivation to youth and adult audiences interested in sportfishing and/or aquatic resource stewardship. It is the belief that this can be accomplished by involving youth in a long-term, on going community-based sportfishing and aquatic resources educational program.

The program is comprised of four interrelated disciplines: fish and people (including angling ethics), angling skills, aquatic ecology, and tackle crafting. In the tradition of 4-H programs, this one is founded on the slogan that individuals "learn by doing." Following this line of thought, the program emphasizes learning in which the participants are actively engaged in activities and practicing new physical and mental skills through projects, events, and outings.

The primary 4-H Sportfishing program goals are to enable diverse youth to develop leadership, self-confidence, personal discipline, critical thinking and other life-skills; to provide young people and adults with a thorough introduction in fishing skills and safety; to provide the proper training in the safe use of sportfishing and related equipment; to foster responsible fishing behavior and appreciation, understanding and commitment to natural resource stewardship.

Recently, it came to my attention that the Diamondhead Anglers Club was interested in working with and teaching the youth in our area about fishing. Who better to mentor our youth than those who have years of experience in what bait or lure to use, fishing safety, where to go, and what conditions make for a successful excursion.

After talking to Mr. Ed Sweet and meeting with Mr. Ray Sheehy and Mr. Don Olson, of the Diamondhead Anglers Club, and Kinta Bakken, the Diamondhead Youth Director, we decided to have an introductory fishing day. The outing was held on April 17.

Because of the regulations on number of people allowed on the pontoon boat, we made two trips out that day in the Bay of St. Louis. Some of the kids were fortunate enough to catch white trout and mullet. Most of the "catch of the day" were hardhead catfish. Needless to say, everyone had a great time.

Those participating in the fishing outing were Calvin Kincher, Sean Bakken, Scott Bakken, Michael Bakken, Jack Gibbons, Alex Averill, Jimmy Grotkowski, Steven

Because of the tremendous interest in the program, the Hancock County 4-H organization is in the process of organizing a Sportfishing Club.

If you are interested in learning about fishing and enjoying the outdoors and want to be a part of this activity, you can contact the Hancock County Extension Office, 3064 Longfellow Drive, Bay St. Louis, at 228-467-5456 or Kinta Bakken, Diamondhead Youth Director (255-1900 ext. 30).

Coast Guard ready for Safe Boating Week

BY BMI PAUL
BARNARD, USCG

Recent statistics show that boating related fatalities are on the rise, reversing a significant downward trend. This year National Safe Boating Week is observed now through May 28. The Coast Guard would like to use this opportunity to reach out to recreational boating community in an effort to reduce both the number of accidents and deaths.

The National Safe Boating Week slogan for this year is "Boat Smart. Boat Safe. Wear It!" The importance of wearing your life jacket cannot be overstated. It is estimated that about 440 lives could have been saved during 2002 if boaters simply wore their lifejackets. The life jackets available today are reasonably priced, lightweight and comfortable, so there is no sense in not wearing yours.

The first thing boaters should do is get some sort of boating education.

In some cases an education is required by state law. In all cases it's good idea. There are a myriad of useful web sites, and phone numbers to get interested boaters started in the right direction. Both the Coast Guard Auxiliary and Mississippi Department of Marine Resources offer safe boating classes.

Boaters can pick up equipment requirement pamphlets published by the Coast Guard and the state of Mississippi.

Beyond the required equipment, there are a number of things boaters should not leave the dock without. Reliable communications is a must. Cell phones are fine when used within their limitations. Our experience here on the Mississippi Gulf Coast is that coverage with most providers becomes hit-or-miss out near the barrier islands. We've seen some cases where we had great cellular communications with boaters at the islands in one instance and no service the next. With that in mind we recommend that anyone venturing more than a couple of miles south of the beach have a modern VHF radio. For those who use cell phones on the water, set our number up on your speed dial (228-863-5818). The Coast Guard is in the process of updating its communications systems nationwide. The new system will allow us to electronically pinpoint the location of VHF transmissions made with modern DSC capable radios. For those with older VHF radios, the location will not be as well defined. Another benefit of a VHF radio is that emergency broadcasts are made on channel 16. Weather warnings, waterway closures, hazards to navigation etc. are introduced on channel 16. The Coast Guard also uses channel 16 to ask other boaters for assistance. Often times Good Samaritans will make it to the scene of a boater in distress before the Coast Guard does. While on the subject of communications, we should discuss how to make a Mayday call. If a boater's perception is that life and or property is in immediate danger a Mayday call should be broadcast on channel 16. Be prepared to give a specific location, preferably a latitude and longitude.

The Coast Guard cannot help you if they cannot locate you. The Coast Guard will ask you a couple of questions to determine the nature of your situation. If it is evaluated as an emergency situation a Coast Guard boat or helicopter will be launched to provide assistance.

Absent a VHF radio or cell phone, flares can be used to communicate the need for assistance. Flares should be considered a last resort, because they don't allow for two-way communications. Flares, also known as visual distress signals, don't provide for an exact location either. This makes flare sightings difficult to prosecute from a rescue organization's standpoint. If you use a flare and for some reason end up not needing Coast Guard assistance, be sure to let the Coast Guard know as soon as you possibly can.

When the Coast Guard receives a flare sighting report, rescue boats and helicopters will be launched to try to locate the source.

By letting the Coast Guard know that you no longer need assistance, you will allow them to focus on other important jobs. If you see a flare please report it to the Coast Guard, even if others have already done so. The more information we get, the better.

Boaters should always file a float plan with a friend or family member before venturing out. Float plans are simple, but can be vitally important.

A float plan needs to provide specific information about the boat (make, registration numbers, type engine and general description), the people on board (names, home and cell phone numbers), the destination (speckled trout fishing near Freemason Island for example) and the intentions of the boaters (departure and return times as well as what channel they might be monitoring on their VHF radio). If you realize you are not going to make it home on time, be sure to inform the person with whom you filed the float plan.

If you can't get in touch with the person who has your float plan, feel free to contact the Coast Guard by VHF radio to let us know you will be running late. We understand and will pass it on to your significant others.

An anchor is not required by law, but boaters would be remiss in leaving port without one. Anchor line should be at least 5 times the water depth and should include several feet of connector chain to keep the anchor digging in. Locally the Coast Guard has received an alarming number of calls for assistance that were created by or exacerbated by lack of an anchor or improper anchor set up.

The weather is responsible for a great number of the Coast Guard's calls for assistance. In most of the cases, the boaters could have avoided their problems had they educated themselves on the weather.

Weather information is widely available to the boating public. Your local newspaper and television stations provide marine weather forecasts. Your VHF radio (you'll notice the repeated reference to the all important VHF radio) has marine weather frequencies in it. Weather channel 1 covers Pascagoula, weather channel 2 covers Gulfport and weather channel 3 covers New Orleans. The VHF weather broadcasts provide real time weather data captured by data buoys, tidal information, forecasts and severe weather warnings. Here on the Mississippi coast we have to be ever mindful of severe thunderstorms, particularly on hot summer days. Some of these storms develop and intensify quite rapidly. Boaters who observe darkening skies on hot summer days are well advised to seek safe harbor or refuge near the islands immediately. This is NOT the time to try to catch one more fish.

The most senseless problems result from the indiscriminate use of alcohol. Alcohol and boats do not mix. State and federal law have set the legal threshold for intoxicated operation at a blood alcohol concentration of .08. Prolonged exposure to the hot sun, engine noise, and bright glare combined with the unsettling effect of the wave action can cause us to think, behave and react differently. The Coast Guard has long recognized this and has established fatigue limits for our boat crews. Operators can ill-afford to add alcohol to the equation. While there are no federal laws that preclude passengers from becoming intoxicated, past experience gives us plenty of reasons to discourage it.

The Coast Guard's website is www.uscg.mil <<http://www.uscg.mil>>. Mississippi Department of Marine Resources website is www.dmr.state.ms.us <<http://www.dmr.state.ms.us>>. Mississippi Department of Wildlife Fisheries and Parks website is www.mdwfp.com <<http://www.mdwfp.com>>. The Boating Safety division of the Department of Marine Resources is 228-432-2820. Coast Guard Station Gulfport can be reached at 228-863-5818. Coast Guard Station Pascagoula can be reached at 228-761-2600.

2003 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report City of Waveland PWS#: 0230002 May 2004

We're pleased to present to you this year's Annual Quality Water Report. This report is designed to inform you about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. Our water source is from four wells drawing from the Graham Gery Formation and Pascagoula Formation Aquifers.

The source water assessment has been completed for our public water system to determine the overall susceptibility of its drinking water supply to identified potential sources of contamination. The general susceptibility rankings assigned to each well of this system are provided immediately below. A report containing detailed information on how the susceptibility determinations were made has been furnished to our public water system and is available for viewing upon request.

Waveland - Well #1	230002-01	moderate susceptibility to contamination
Well #2	230002-02	moderate susceptibility to contamination
Well #3	230002-03	moderate susceptibility to contamination
Well #4	230002-04	moderate susceptibility to contamination

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Dwight Haskell at 228-467-9248. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the first Monday and the third Wednesday after the first Monday of each month at 6:30 PM at the Annex Building.

The City of Waveland routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. This table shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2003. In cases where monitoring wasn't required in 2003, the table reflects the most recent results. As water travels over the land or underground, it can pick up substances or contaminants such as microbes, inorganic and organic chemicals, and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some constituents. It's important to remember that the presence of these constituents does not necessarily pose a health risk.

In this table you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Action Level - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - A treatment technique is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - The "Maximum Allowed" (MCL) is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - The "Goal" (MCLG) is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

TEST RESULTS
Contaminant	Violation Y/N	Date Collected	Level Detected	Range of Detects or # of Samples Exceeding MCL/ACL	Unit Measurement	MCLG	MCL	Likely Source of Contamination
Inorganic Contaminants
10. Barium	N	2002*	.012	.007 - .012	Ppm	2	2	Discharge of drilling wastes; discharge from metal refineries; erosion of natural deposits
12. Cadmium	N	2002*	.6	No Range	Ppb	5	5	Corrosion of galvanized pipes; erosion of natural deposits; discharge from metal refineries; runoff from waste batteries and paints
13. Chromium	N	2002*	13	3 - 13	Ppb	100	100	Discharge from steel and pulp mills; erosion of natural deposits
14. Copper	N	2001*	.211	0	ppm	1.3	AL=1.3	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits; leaching from wood preservatives
17. Lead	N	2001*	3	0	ppb	0	AL=15	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits

* Most recent sample. No sample required for 2003.

As you can see by the table, our system had no violations. We're proud that your drinking water meets or exceeds all Federal and State requirements. We have learned through our monitoring and testing that some constituents have been detected however the EPA has determined that your water IS SAFE at these levels.

All sources of drinking water are subject to potential contamination by substances that are naturally occurring or man made. These substances can be microbes, inorganic or organic chemicals and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline 1-800-426-4791.

The City of Waveland works around the clock to provide top quality water to every tap. We ask that all our customers help us protect our water sources, which are the heart of our community, our way of life and our children's future.

A senior at Saint Stanislaus High School is one of the top STAR Students in Mississippi and winner of a $500 STAR scholarship.

Andrew S. Waterman, son of John and Elizabeth Waterman of Bay St. Louis, has been designated as an ALL-STAR Scholar in the Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition program. The program, now celebrating its 38th year, is sponsored by the Mississippi Economic Council's M. B. Swayze Educational Foundation.

Scholarships for ALL-STAR Scholars and their STAR Teachers are provided by the Kelly Gene Cook, Sr. Charitable Foundation. Mrs. Peggy Cook Pool of Houston, Texas, president of the Foundation and widow of Mr. Cook, presented the ALL-STAR scholarships, which total nearly $73,000.

More than 250 STAR Students were selected on the basis of academic excellence. Scores on the American College Test and scholastic averages were used by each participating high school to determine its STAR Student. Twenty ALL-STAR Scholars were then selected from these STAR Students. Each of the ALL-STAR Scholars scored at least 34 on the ACT this year. Andrew was asked to choose a STAR Teacher - the teacher who has made the greatest contribution to his scholastic achievement. He chose Brother Malcolm Melcher of Mobile, Alabama, who received a $250 Cook Foundation award. The ALL-STAR Scholars and Teachers were honored at the Mississippi Economic Council's thirteenth annual Education Celebration at Mississippi College in Clinton. Waveland helps people reduce the risk of stroke

Residents living in and around the Waveland, Miss., community can be screened to reduce their risk of having a stroke. Life Line Screening will be at the Gulfside Assembly United Methodist Conference Center on May 27th. The site is located at 950 S. Beach Blvd. in Waveland. Appointments will begin at 9:00 a.m.

A stroke, also known as a "brain attack", is ranked as the third leading killer in the world and the second among women. Through preventive screenings, the risk of having a stroke can be greatly reduced.

Screenings are fast, painless and low cost. They involve the use of ultrasound technology, and scan for potential health problems related to: blocked arteries which can lead to a stroke, aortic aneurysms which can lead to a ruptured aorta, and hardening of the arteries in the legs, which are a strong predictor of heart disease. Also offered for men and women, is a bone density screening to assess their risk for osteoporosis.

"I might never have known I had a blockage if it were not for your screening," James R. Neal, Sr., Ripley, Miss.

Each screening requires ten minutes or less to complete. A complete vascular screening package, including the Stroke/Carotid Artery, Abdominal Aortic Aneurysm and Ankle Brachial Index (hardening of the arteries) screenings is $99. Sign-up for a complete vascular package; include the osteoporosis screening and pay only $125.

Life Line Screening was established in 1993, and has since become the nation's leading provider of vascular screenings. Over 45 ultrasound teams are on staff to travel to your local community, bringing the screenings to you. These non-invasive, inexpensive and painless, ultrasound tests help people identify their risk for stroke, vascular diseases or osteoporosis early enough for their physician to begin preventive procedures.

For more information regarding the screenings or to schedule an appointment, call 1-800-643-6188. Pre-registration is required.

Coast Episcopal School students win national author's contest

Fifth grade students from Coast Episcopal School in Long Beach are realizing their dream of becoming published authors. Their book, Color For Thoughts, won the grand prize for a nonfiction work in Scholastic's Kids Are Authors competition, a national book-writing contest for teams of student writers in grades K-8. The student's winning book was selected from among thousands of entries nationwide and will be published and distributed at Scholastic Book Fairs in schools nationwide this fall.

To recognize their accomplishment, each young author will receive a medal, framed certificate, and a copy of their published book during an official award ceremony to be held at their school later this fall. The school will receive $2,000 in Scholastic Book Fairs merchandise and 100 copies of Color For Thought.

Color For Thought, which the students conceived, wrote and illustrated, offers a fascinating look at the colors that surround us: "your RED strawberry milkshake might contain bugs," and "we owe our lives to the BLUE blood of a crab?" The book also includes activities and games to help readers see colors in a whole new light.

Tens of thousands of student participated in the 2004 Kids Are Authors competition. This year's topics ranged from recess to the war in Iraq. A group of students from Batesville, Miss., enlisted the help of actor Morgan Freeman to help them write their book about a celebrity who visits a small town. This year's panel of distinguished judges included: renowned children's book authors and illustrators Loreen Leedy, Lin Oliver, Christopher Myers, Mark Teague and Tony DiTerlizzi selected the grand-prize winners.

Estes Hill Elementary School in Chapel Hill, N.C., penned the program's 2004 fiction winner, Nora The Noitapus, about a shy cephalopod with nine tentacles who helps save her classmates from a mean bully.

"It was difficult to choose two winners from the many outstanding submissions we received," said David Krishock, president of Scholastic Book Fairs. "The level of sophistication and creativity demonstrated by this year's entries proves you are never too young to be an author."

Twenty-five entries garnered Honorable Mention accolades. The runners up will each receive a certificate of merit and a $200 Scholastic Book Fairs merchandise certificate for their school.

Gas prices not expected to deter Mississippians from summer trips

BY LYNDA EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The average cost of a gallon of gas at Mississippi service stations is now $1.828, up about 13 cents from only a few weeks ago.

The pump price average at mid-April was $1.697.

The American Automobile Association predicts that higher prices will not stand between Mississippians and the road to Elvis Presley's birthplace in Tupelo, casinos, Delta juke joints, water parks or any of the state's attractions. And AAA does not believe soaring fuel prices will deter tourists from neighboring states.

"We've seen no decline in day trips in any of the Southern states," AAA district manager Stuart Hodes said Wednesday. "There's a psychological component to how Americans react to gas prices. It's a highly politicized commodity."

"When McDonald's raises prices, no one complains to their congressman about the price of Happy Meals. But drivers get mad, complain at the gas pump, blame politicians. Yet they still think it's worth the extra dollars to fill the tank and go on a road trip," Hodes said.

That is especially true in Mississippi, where public transportation is almost nonexistent and a driver can cross the state in about four hours.

AAA surveys over 60,000 self-serve gas stations nationwide to calculate prices. The national average cost of a gallon of regular gas is $1.93. The South averages about ten cents less, with Texas offering the best bargain: $1.798 per gallon. Hodes said he was surprised to find that on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, the average price actually dropped this week from $1.83 to $1.80.

Hodes thought fuel prices might have an adverse affect on European tourists who see their airline fares increasing due to fuel costs. But Elvis Presley Museum director Dick Guyton said British, German, Belgian and Dutch tourists are still making pilgrimages to the rock 'n' roller's Tupelo birthplace.

Guyton estimates that Europeans comprise 45 percent of his tourists. "Our British tourists say that they gain about 18 cents on every dollar because the value of the Euro is so strong," Guyton said.

He said that the museum draws 60,000 paying tourists annually. About 20,000 more who stroll around the grounds for free," Guyton said.

And Hodes has advice for all travelers who want to beat OPEC at the gas pump: "Don't buy another giant gas guzzler (and) keep the car you own in good shape with the right tire pressure."

And don't confuse a day trip on a state highway with rounding a NASCAR track, he said. "Speeding up fast then stopping short guzzles gas."

Boys & Girls Club to host spaghetti dinner

THE SEA COAST ECHO
The Hancock County Boys & Girls Club and American Legion Post 139 will co-sponsor a spaghetti dinner on Friday, June 4, at the post home on Blue Meadow Road in Bay St. Louis to benefit the club's summer program.

The club is the newest unit of Boys & Girls Clubs of The Gulf Coast, part of a national organization formed over 140 years ago to help youth realize their full potential as productive, responsible, caring citizens.

The Gulf Coast group, formed in 1966, has clubs in East Biloxi, West Biloxi, North Gulfport and Pass Christian as well as Hancock County.

The Hancock County unit opened in January with an after-school program at Second Street Elementary School in Bay St. Louis. The summer program will serve about 260 youngsters, club director Richie Santiago said.

The ultimate goal of the program is to open more clubs throughout the county. Jeremi Rose Raboteau, 11, said this about the Hancock County club: "I like the Boys & Girls Club because it's a good place to be. It is a safe place and also a good place to have fun. They help you if you're having trouble with anything. It is a place where you learn and have people who care about you.

They also teach you right from wrong. The staff helps you with homework and any problems you might be having that you don't want to go to your parents about."

Although the club is partially funded by an early childhood grant from the Mississippi Department of Human Services and seed money from the Boys & Girls Club of America, United Way of South Mississippi and the state Attorney General's Office, about $35,000 must be raised locally to support the club during its first year.

The American Legion post is providing the location and the Ladies Auxiliary will help prepare the food, which will include spaghetti and meatballs, salad, peas and garlic bread.

The fund-raiser will be held from 5 to 8 p.m.

Diners may eat in or take out dinners.

Tickets, at $10 each, are available from the club office at Second Street Elementary, from board members, or from parents of participating youngsters.

"It's bad! It's bad!
"Do something! Do it quick!

I opened my eyes and stared at the two eyes peering intently at me. It was Jennie. Her tail was between her legs and her eyes were level with mine. There was a flash, then after a few seconds, a loud explosion. Although impossible, her eyes grew wider.
I got up, took Jennie by the collar and walked her out the bedroom, through the family room, then around the corner and through the hall. Opening the garage door, I pushed her into the garage and shut the door.
Peace in a thunderstorm is Jennie in the garage.
Peace, yes; quiet, no. Around me the cracks of the thunder was came closer and closer to coincide with the strobes of lightning. Heavy rain had joined the general din of wind and thunder and sheets of water lashed the house.
I stood there wide-awake, yet dazed. It was five o'clock; still dark. It was a strange feeling. All about me were the same massive sounds and bursts of light that had sent Jennie into a paroxysm of terror and yet I felt nothing but awe.
We had a severe drought a few years back and, in desperation, I had written a prayer for rain and stuck it in my Sunday column:
God, Don't send the namby-pamby rain. Send the rain that comes in big drops. Drops that hit the ground with a wallop, that stir the dust. Drops that will come walking down the road toward us, smacking the earth, bringing crackling flashes of snapping lightning and rolling whamming bass thunder!
God, I want to be chased into the house by raindrops the size of marbles and cold as Jell-O, I want our dog to go running into the closet and our cat to hide under the bed.
God, give us a one-incher, no, make that a two-incher. Make the rain lash at the

A Tale of Two Kiddie Cities

Bay Catholic students create communities from ground up

Mayor Miles Burnett over sees the town of Third Rock.

SEA COAST ECHO
There are two new cities in our area and both have mayors too young to vote. Kids Kool City and Third Rock, Miss., have elected city councils and their stores are open for business, but most people will never get to shop in these two towns. That's because they are the creation of third grade students at Bay Catholic Elementary School in Bay St. Louis.
The cities were part of a social studies project in which the students created a community from the ground up. Each city began with the election of a mayor and a city council. Next, students submitted applications and earned paydays to run their own businesses and even opened checking accounts at the city bank.

The post offices sell stamps and students could mail letters to one another. Police officers a fire Marshall and a sanitation engineer were also on duty in each city. There was a zoo, hair salon, flower shop and more.
Third grade teachers Paul Barnes and Betsy Gagnet explained that the project The business applications also received and English grade and the money flowing from hand to hand has been an ongoing Math lesson. The best part is that the kids loved the project, they said.

"It has taught the kids responsibility as individuals and as members of a community," said Barnes. "The kids really enjoy the hands-on experience."
"Their creativity has been wonderful," said Gagnet of the business ideas. "The kids have embraced this project and it has gone further than we ever anticipated."

windows. Make the thunder be a boomer, make it make enough noise to show us it is serious, and make the lightning snap so hard you can smell the ozone ...

There was more to the prayer, but that's essentially it. Well, as prayers go this one appeared especially potent. Three days after its printing, we had an violent visit from Tropical Storm "Allison."

Allison was a badder. In fact it has since been classified as one of the worst rainstorms to ever hit the Gulf Coast. After the storms deluge, we began getting calls from people who asked that we put no more prayers in the paper.

I will admit Allison was bad. So, if you have a copy of the complete prayer and ever get an urge to read it in its entirety, I suggest you go in the bedroom closet and get down under the shoes in the corner in the dark.

We don't seem to have the rains today that we had five or ten years ago. It seemed that back then, the spring rains produced spectacular light and sound shows that had a crackling, whamming quality that seems missing in the spring storms of the last few years.

However, tonight's storm with its lashing rain, banging thunder and crisp, clear strikes of brilliant lightning seems as fierce as any of those storms of old. After leaving Jennie in the garage, I began a close inspection of the house, looking for leaks.

Leaks are possible. It's a big house with many pitched roofs and valleys to catch and hold water. In addition, we live on the beach, which allows us to get the full brunt of the seasonal storms with their angled wind, rain and high salt content.

About ten years after we built the house, the shingles on the roof started to deteriorate and we started having leaks. I replaced these using the best 30-year shingles available.

After another 10 years and a few nasty storms, these shingles went bad also and I replaced them with 40-year shingles. These last shingles did not weather well either and, to halt farther frustration, I decided to have a steel roof put on.

It was an impressive replacement. The men came with what appeared to be miles of steel paneling and for two weeks the house and the grounds around the house was a chaos of men and noise. Then they left and the roofing contractor, Charles, presented me with the bill and the promise that I now had a permanent roof and would see no more leaks.

The new roof looked good (the steel was a gray, but on the house it assumed a dark milk chocolate look that blended nicely with the house's weathered redwood siding).

But I wanted something to protect the inside as well as dress up the outside. Now we're having the first really heavy rain and wind storm that could test Charles's work and promise.

I took a flashlight and meticulously checked every place of previous trouble and then places where we've never had trouble. Nothing.

The pounding rain may have found some wee hole for me to find later, but with this rain there was no leaks that I could see. I headed for bed, hoping for another hour's sleep.

When I climbed in bed, I found Stella was awake. I together for the second time to 'explore options' to promote passage of a bond issued for a new Hancock County jail.

FORTY YEARS AGO

May 7, 1964 - Waveland's mayor and board of aldermen Tuesday night directed Tax Assessor C.O. Dufour to assess vacant lots on paved streets $5 a front foot and those on unpaved streets a minimum of $4.

At present many of the lots are assessed at $3 a front foot, but after hearing from Dufour that 50-foot lots with this assessment are selling for $1,250 or more, the aldermen ordered the tax increase.

Proposed plans for Interstate Highway 90 through Hancock County and connecting facilities for present U.S. 90 west of Bay St. Louis will be explained at a public hearing by the Mississippi State Highway Department at 2 p.m., Friday, May 29, at the Agricultural Center on Necaise Avenue.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

May 14, 1954 - Rep. Walter James Phillips has proposed rebuilding the seawall and beach road and constructing a sand beach the length of Hancock County in the State Legislature's new "causeway bill."

Rep. Phillips made this suggestion Wednesday while explaining the causeway bill to the Rotary Club at Hotel Reed.

He outlined the plane this way: The "causeway bill" is not only for the proposed causeway to Ship Island, but also for any similar improvements to be voted on by Hancock, Harrison and Jackson Counties.

Lance Lumpkin, former coach at Long Beach High School and now in Slidell, is reported set to replace Bennie Ray Nobles as football coach at Bay High.

SIXTY YEARS AGO

May 5, 1944 - The War Department notified Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Smith of Caesar Community in Hancock County that their son, Hollis Smith was killed in action in Italy on April 8.

Their son was inducted into the Army in 1942 and was home on furlough last August.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith had four of their sons in service; Clifton, who saw action in North Africa; Wilmer, who was a parachutist, and was injured in a jump and discharged; Hubert, who is now stationed at Camp Shelby; and Hollis, who gave his life in the defense of this country.

Mr. Smith is well known throughout Hancock County, as he was a former Board of Supervisor.

Scouting Out Fun

As part of their bridging requirements, Members of Junior Girl Scout Troop #340 needed to earn a cadette interest project badge. The scouts chose the badge "From Fitness to Fashion". Parts of the badge were completed in a regular meeting setting with the aid of a beauty consultant from Absolute Perfection Hair Salon. The remainder of the badge was earned during a field trip to Limited Too. The scouts were trained as employees of Limited Too. They were given access to the store room where they learned how to hang new merchandise. They also learned the proper techniques for handling customers. The girls then were instructed about how the store arranges its floor racks to coordinate clothing outfits. Each girl chose an outfit, determined its visual appeal, and then modeled it in the store window. Earning the Fitness to Fashion badge were Beth Boozer, Laurel Bruce, Jamie Jellinski, Jessica Jellinski, Chelsea Levy, Paige Muse, Lauren Necalse, Jennifer Odom, Erica Palmer, Lauren Perniclaro, Arielle Pucheu, Lauren Stealey, and Jessica Trudo.

Members of Girl Scout Troop #340 spent an educational afternoon on the grounds of the Wildlife Rehabilitation and Nature Preserve in Pass Christian. The director for the center gave the scouts an overview of the purpose of the preserve. She then took the scouts to the rehabilitation location and allowed the girls to touch some of the resident animals as she explained the injuries each animal had at the time of its admittance. The scouts learned how the injuries were treated, what food is provided and the type of shelter that is needed to make each animal comfortable during its stay at the preserve. They then hiked through the adjacent woods to look for signs of animal life as the director explained how to interpret the animal markings the scouts located. Before leaving the site, troop members donated money and items to the preserve to help with the cost of animal care. Scouts in attendance were Beth Boozer, Laurel Bruce, Jamie Jellinski, Jessica Jellinski, Lauren Necalse, Jennifer Odom, Erica Palmer, Lauren Perniclaro, Arielle Pucheu, and Lauren Stealey.

During National Arbor Week, the girl scouts of Diamondhead Troop #340 planted flowers and small bushes in Haley's Garden at East Hancock Elementary. Haley Ladner was a classmate of the scouts and the garden is dedicated to her memory. In addition to planting flowers, the girls weeded and mulched the beds, laid a brick walkway, and transplanted some palms to a better location. Pictured working in the garden are scouts Lauren Perniclaro and Jennifer Odom.

GeoPave is a full service paving contractor specializing in industrial/commercial and residential markets. They can find solutions to the completion of your project from a residential driveway or subdivision development to county/local highways. GeoPave is a division of SCI, Incorporated, which is a general civil contractor with 24 years of experience in utility, storm drainage, site construction, and concrete flat work. GeoPave along with SCI can offer a total package for all civil construction projects from the utility work through the finished paving, whether commercial or residential.

GeoPave also specializes in soil stabilization construction which is a means of taking on-site soils and turning them into a stable base on which to pave through incorporating and mixing additives with the soils. This June, GeoPave will begin construction to widen and overlay the Stennis Airport Road off of Highway 603 and they will also be paving at the Beaux Arts Condominiums now under construction on Dunbar Avenue, just south of Highway 90. So anyone locally can see the high quality site work that GeoPave can provide for any project. Whether it be your own driveway, renovation of an old parking lot, or parking for a new shopping center, GeoPave covers it all.

Drop your hoods - Now!

Nicholas Berg's last words have left a jangling vibration in our memories which refuses to go away, but only grows uglier and more painful with each passing day. Having seen point blank far too many gory, brutal scenes of violence during my life, I do not want to see Nick's head being chopped off.

The five big, bad executioners flanking Berg were so bold and brash that they feared to let anyone see their faces and thus recognize them. Bravado was their façade to hide the shameful cowardice common to all killers. Thus, the proverbial hoods to conceal their evil mix of fear and malevolence.

That was nothing new, to be sure. All of history is the morbid backdrop to the early-May disgusting beheading in Iraq. The Ku Klux Klan, one of the all-time most infamous, wore body-length hoods to both hide and terrorize.

A post-Civil War white supremacist secret society hatched in Pulaski, Tennessee by a group of Confederate Army veterans in 1865/66 to terrorize Negroes who voted, the KKK's hooded wonders were extremely effective with their ominous hoods, horses and flaming crosses in the dead of night.

After threatening, beating and murdering many Negroes and their white sympathizers, the KKK dissolved after the U.S. Congress passed the Force Bill in 1871, empowering the President to use federal troops against them.

Out of its accursed ashes, the Klan was rehatiched in 1915 by William J. Simmons, a former Methodist minister. The body-length hoods set out to renew paralyzing terror among "un-American" groups such as Negroes, immigrants, Jews and particularly Roman Catholics.

Of peculiar interest is the fact that a decimated, for-the-most-part underground KKK still rides today, still spewing raw hatred, although the Klan is greatly muted by public opinion. Iraq's hooded executioners are but faraway mirrors of similar stateside problems with secret assassins.

So, before Americans at large vent their fury at the hooded executioners in Iraq, they had best examine their own consciences to see whether they have in any way supported any supremacist group here on their own sod.

After all, David Duke, fresh off a 15-month stint in a low-security federal prison in Big Spring, Texas, is being allowed to perform his community service by helping with the white supremacist group which he birthed.

It was this same formerly hooded wonder, David Duke, Grand Wizard of the KKK, who

Reflections on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

had run successfully for the job of state representative and who ran very strongly for governor in the suburbs of New Orleans.

Duke sympathizers, KKK sympathizers, supremacist sympathizers all fall into the same bin of ignorant hatred as the notorious hooded executioners of Iraq. They have a lot of gall if they engage in finger-pointing.

The devil speaks Iraqi as fluently as he does English or any other tongue or dialect of the world, and, of course, as Jesus reminds us: "When he (the devil) tells a lie, he is speaking his native language, because he is a liar and the father of lies." (John 8:44)

Perhaps it is not just the hooded executioners of Iraq but the whole world that is lying to itself, for, after all, the Geneva Convention III and IV of August 12, 1949 sought to bring an oxymoron to life: humane warfare.

No matter who is right or wrong in war, all of humankind is the victim in one way or other, for we are once more forced to face the awful truism voiced by the ancient Romans: "Man is a wolf to man."

James Byrd, Jr.'s truck-dragging lynching in Jasper, Texas on June 7, 1998 is an ever-present, crude reminder that we have met many of the brutal Iraqis and others, and, unfortunately, they are we.

The wretched fiftieth anniversary of the bloody lynching of 14-year-old Emmett Till just hit the media in the last few days. Just 24 years old at the time, the dreaded news hit me and the whole Negro community like a bolt of lightning followed by an eardrum-splitting thunderclap.

Whether you are white, black or otherwise, folks, stark, irrepressible reminders are everywhere.

We are constantly reminded that no country or people has clean hands, and needs the redemption and justification of God.

We need not have recourse to the negative, mercenary, sensation-seeking media to be reminded of our shortcomings, blunders and outright sins. The awful news is with us in our families, schools, churches, jobs and recreation.

The only big difference is that the hoods of executioners remind us further that we can run but we cannot hide, for the truth will out either because of us or in spite of us. We need to drop all our hoods, facades and pretenses.

If we are willing to surrender ourselves, we shall overcome and find peace in our lives: "If you remain in my word, you will truly be my disciples, and you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free." (John 8:32)

Scripture Says . . .

By Ed Young

Up, get you out of this place for the Lord will destroy this city. But he seemed as one that mocked unto his son-in-laws. Gen. 19:14.

Lott made a jest, he made lights of the warnings, the Lord's angels gave to him: Not a wise thing to do. For judgment was coming to that city.

The warnings are just as true today. God's word does not return void.

The scriptures say, don't commit fornication, nor adultery, nor unnatural sexual acts. One is mocking the image of God. Yet, today this disobedience is promoted mostly by the media. Perversion on marriage will bring the destruction of the home, families will lose their meaning. This country will continue to decline. God will not be mocked. America's greatness is fading. The down of the last days of this country, has become a light that has lost in glow.

From the pages of the Bible the people of Sodom and Gomorrah could testify, and cry out, don't mock God!

Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatever a man sows, that will he also reap. Gal. 6:7.

The Bible tells us, as were the days of Noah, so will be the coming of the son of man. For in those days before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and given in marriage, until the day Noah entered into the ark; and they did not know until the flood came and swept them all away. So will it be the coming of the Son of man. Matt. 24: 37, 38.

However, the born again believer is looking forward to be swept up by the hand of God.

The "Word" for the Week The Great Debates

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

There is a growing cleavage in our culture between those wanting total freedom or autonomy and those who believe in absolute truth. The person who seeks autonomy literally wants to be a law to himself. Whatever is right for that person is considered right. This is the prevalent view in our society when it comes to moral standards. This is why Ted Koppel was so soundly berated by his colleagues in the media when he said something like this, "Moses did not come down from Mount Sinai with the Ten Suggestions." The battle was engaged immediately. Why? The Ten Commandments represent an abiding, perpetual, absolute standard for morality. That's exactly what Ted Koppel implied. But his cohorts jumped all over him. They seek autonomy from God and from everyone else. The only absolute moral standard, we are permitted to have, is that there are no moral absolutes. For example, the Seventh of the Ten Commandments says, "You shall not commit adultery" (Exodus 20:14). Today, people laugh at this commandment. But who is having the last laugh. Listen to these statistics. In 1960, 5.3% of the births in this country were considered illegitimate. In 1991, 28% of the births were illegitimate. In 1960, 9.1 % of the families in this country were single parent families. By 1991, 28.6% percent of our families were single parent families. During this same period the teenage suicide rate has more than tripled. SAT scores have gone down substantially. Since we began to laugh at the idea of absolute moral standards, we have lost our ability to adequately define love, sin, and righteousness. We've lost our anchor. We are adrift on a sea of relativism. To hear more on the same topic call toll free for the "mini-message of the week" 1-800-777-0389 or visit www.w-e-m.org

RONNIE MCDOWELL & THE JORDANAIRE

The spirit of the King, Elvis Presley, is alive and coming to Casino Magic Bay St. Louis for two performances, June 11th and 12th at 9 p.m. "All The King's Men: A Tribute to Elvis" stars Ronnie McDowell, original Jordanares guitarist, Scotty Moore and Jordanares drummer D.J. Fontana and offers Elvis fans a revival of his greatest music. Tickets are available for $14.95, $19.95 and $24.95 at the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or at any Ticketmaster location.

The show is a 90 to 120-minute celebration of Elvis' life and music by those who knew him best. There are no Elvis impersonations in the show, but one lucky fan will be selected from the audience to sing an Elvis song on stage with the Jordanares backing them. There is heavy audience involvement. During pauses in the show, the performers take questions from the crowd about Elvis.

McDowell and company present Elvis' songs in chronological order, tracing his music as it takes him from Memphis to Nashville and then on to New York, Hollywood and Las Vegas. The program begins with Ronnie Dean, McDowell's son, steaming through the intricately times "Mystery Train" and concludes with the cast performing "How Great Thou Art" and "King

Smokey Robinson

Creole." McDowell makes his entrance with "That's All Right, Mama." By evening's end, he will have added his own sparkle to "Blue Moon of Kentucky," "Heartbreak Hotel," "Don't Be Cruel," as well as to other standards requested by the audience. For a change of pace, McDowell will ask the fans to imagine what it would have been like if Elvis had put his vocal mark on songs that have since become identified with other performers, like Patsy Cline's "Crazy" and others.

Come kick up your blue suede shoes at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on June 11th or 12th! Must be 21 to attend.

SMOKEY ROBINSON

Motown legend, Smokey Robinson, will play two shows at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on June 25 and 26 at 9 p.m. Tickets are available for $29.94, $34.95 and $39.95 at the Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet.

Singer-songwriter Smokey Robinson began his music career with The Miracles in the 1960's churning out hits like: "I Second That Emotion," "Shop Around," "Tracks of My Tears," "Get Ready," "Ooh, Baby Baby" and "Tears of a Clown." Robinson also co-wrote and produced the hits, "My Girl" for the Temptations and "My Guy" for Mary Wells.

Robinson began a solo career in 1972 which led to the hits "Cruisin'" and "Being With You." The ballads helped to further establish Robinson as a mainstream romantic soul artist. He has earned every major award in the business including Grammy Awards, a place in the Rock n' Roll Hall of Fame and the Songwriters Hall of Fame, the Soul Train Heritage Award and the NARAS Living Legend Award. Even an entire radio format, "Quiet Storm," takes its name from Smokey's first solo album.

McCallum just Ducky on 'NCIS'

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

Those old enough to have seen the 1964-'68 series "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." in its original run on NBC may remember that mysterious Eastern European secret agent Illya Kuryakin (David McCallum), with his blond Beatle bob and black turtle-necks, was one of the hot TV hunks of the day.

Forty years later, the Scottish-born McCallum, 70, may have yielded sex-symbol status to others, but his role as Naval Criminal Investigative Service medical examiner Dr. Donald "Ducky" Mallard in the Tuesday-night CBS series "Navy NCIS" (just "NCIS" next year) has put him back in a Top 20 show which has already been renewed for a second season.

McCallum answers an emphatic "No!" when asked if he thought he'd still be on television in 2004, but says, "It's a bit lonely in California. I try to commute when I can, but it's just so worth it to be here and be in a show, having had the career that I've had, to suddenly be able to start over again."

"To do a series at my age, it's just the icing on the cake, especially this one."

McCallum has spent most of his career in the U.S., mainly in New York, where he worked both on film and on stage. His TV work spans genres: the rollicking espionage of "U.N.C.L.E.," the World War II prison Birthplace: Glasgow, Scotland, on Sept. 19, 1933, now an American citizen.

Marital status: Wed to interior designer Katherine Carpenter since 1967; before that, he was married to actress Jill Ireland.

Two of Oscar's favorite films make their network debuts

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

It's a rarity: Two Academy Award-winning movies are making their broadcast-TV debuts on consecutive nights.

Russell Crowe stars as schizophrenic mathematician John Nash in Oscar's best picture of 2001, "A Beautiful Mind," which ABC airs Monday, May 24. Jennifer Connelly, who plays Nash's wife, and director Ron Howard also earned trophies for the film.

Then on Tuesday, May 25, NBC televises the 2000 drug-trade drama "Traffic." Benicio Del Toro was named best supporting actor as a Mexican policeman trying to turn a blind eye to drug deals, and director Steven Soderbergh also won an Oscar.

Even being so renowned, two major theatrical films premiering on network TV within a day of each other - even toward the end of a ratings-crucial "sweeps" month - is unusual these days. Once mainstays of the tube, movies aren't seen nearly as much on the major networks now, although many cable channels couldn't get by without them.

That's one reason broadcasters have shied away, or at least have made rights-sharing deals with cable outlets that cost less; for instance, TBS and TNT both ran Mel Gibson's "The Patriot" before it had its first CBS airing on Easter Sunday.

Even before TBS can get hold of a feature film, though, the movie has had plenty of exposure elsewhere. Home video is the first TV-related stop, and a critical one, since that business has exploded ... thanks to sales as much as (if not more than) rentals, because of the DVD revolution in particular. Shortly afterward, the same title becomes available on pay-per-view, the prelude to its arrival on premium channels like HBO and Showtime.

Tom Selleck

"Doing 'Friends' was a risk," says Tom Selleck, who co-stars in CBS' "Reversal of Fortune" Sunday and Tuesday, May 23 and 25. "Just about every professional person I was around at the time didn't think I should do the

Strong cast, intimate approach keep 'Lion' royally entertaining

By John Crook
© Zap2it

Playwright James Goldman's "The Lion in Winter" bombed when it premiered on Broadway in 1966 with its depiction of a tense but funny 12th-century yuletide family reunion headed by King Henry II and his estranged wife, Eleanor of Aquitaine.

A 1968 big-screen adaptation starring Katharine Hepburn and Peter O'Toole was a smash, however, raking in a box-office fortune and earning Oscars for best actress Hepburn, Goldman (for adapting his own play) and John Barry for his musical score, along with additional nominations for O'Toole, director Anthony Harvey and the overall best picture award.

In fact, "Lion" ranks among the top 250 movies of all time at the Internet Movie Database, as determined by online voters.

That's why Patrick Stewart, the executive producer and star of a new Showtime production using Goldman's original screenplay, anticipates the big question even before an interviewer asks it.

"Why remake it?" Stewart asks rhetorically about the new version, which bows Sunday, May 23, with Glenn Close taking over the role of Eleanor of Aquitaine.

"When you have a fine piece of writing, an outstanding script such as this one, it is something that demands to be revisited," Stewart says. "Fine work can always be reinterpreted. When something is ordinary, very often there is only one way of doing it. But if it is complex and rich, as James Goldman's script is, there are always alternative interpretations. We strongly felt this was such a screenplay, with many options for re-exploring."

The Showtime version, directed by Andrei Konchalovsky ("Runaway Train"), takes a little getting used to in its idiosyncratic differences from the 1968 classic, but its more intimate explorations of this royally dysfunctional family is satisfying in its own right.

Following a new prologue depicting Eleanor's last campaign against Henry with sons Richard (Andrew Howard) and Geoffrey (John Light), the Goldman screenplay unfolds in familiar style, charting the vehement power plays between Henry and Eleanor during a Christmas reunion where Henry's favorite, youngest son John (Rafe Spall), and his beautiful lover, Alais (Julia Vysotsky), are pawns, along with Alais' visiting brother, Philip II of France (Jonathan Rhys-Meyers).

Still vital at 63, Stewart casts a distinctly older impression as Henry compared to O'Toole, throwing into relief the character's central conflict.

"Part of the despair of this character is that he comes to understand that while you may be the most powerful man in Europe, you cannot rule from the grave," Stewart explains. "He hears a ticking clock, and he cannot have peace of mind while the future of his kingdom is uncertain. He doesn't want to fight anymore, so he is struggling to find a rapprochement in this family, one that he can also swallow - and there's the rub!"

His estranged wife has a completely different set of priorities during this forced reunion, Close says, something heartbreakingly personal.

"Eleanor's primary motivation is to get Henry back," Close says. "She loves him. It's 'can't live with him, can't live without him' to the nth degree. This is such a great piece, and it tells such a great love story."

Glenn Close and Patrick Stewart star as Eleanor of Aquitaine and Henry II, two historical titans whose love transcends their interminable bickering in "The Lion in Winter" Sunday on Showtime.

"To me, there are kind of intimations of 'Dangerous Liaisons,' with these two people who are really meant for each other if life had done its work. Underneath all the cruelty and the taunting and the politics lies the unshakable fact that these two characters cannot (stop loving) one another."

Unfortunately, this family feud between Henry and Eleanor comes at a steep price for the younger characters in the piece, none more so than middle child Geoffrey, the conniving middle son beloved of neither parent. Light gives a fascinating performance in this fiendishly difficult role, but Close confesses that she is appalled by the way Eleanor and Henry exploited their children so methodically.

'24' starlet Cuthbert lines up a 'Wax' job

Q I am intrigued by Elisha Cuthbert ("The Girl Next Door"). Does she have any other film credits? - Andrew Angel via e-mail.

A Best known to TV audiences as Jack Bauer's (Kiefer Sutherland) perpetually imperilled daughter on Fox's "24," 21-year old Calgary, Alberta, native Cuthbert previously appeared in "Love, Actually" and "Old School," as well as such TV movies as "My Daughter's Secret Life" and "Mail to the Chief."

Next up, she stars with Jared Padalecki ("Gilmore Girls"), Paris Hilton ("The Simple Life") and Chad Michael Murray ("One Tree Hill") in a contemporary feature remake of the 1953 chiller "House of Wax," due in October.

Q I noticed Debby Boone's name in the closing credits of a Rosemary Clooney concert on PBS. Is this the Ferrer family that Debby married into? - J.P.S., San Francisco.

A This year marks Boone's 25th anniversary with artist Gabriel Ferrer, son of the late Rosemary Clooney and actor Jose Ferrer (which also makes Debby the sister-in-law of "Crossing Jordan" actor Miguel Ferrer).

Boone and Ferrer have four children: Gabrielle, Dustin, Jordan and Tessa.

Q Back in the Fifties, there was a TV program called "The Halls of Ivy," with a theme song sung by a male chorus. I cannot remember where it was set. Was it Yale? -Jan MacDougall, Augusta, N.J.

A Based on a 1950-52 radio series of the same name, "The Halls of Ivy" (CBS, 1954-55) found Oscar winner Ronald Colman ("A Double Life") and his spouse, Benita Hume, reprising their radio characters of Dr. William Todhunter Hall and his wife, Vicky. The sitcom was set at Ivy College, located somewhere in the Midwest; Mary Wickes played their housekeeper, Alice. Stronger on verbal wit than the physical comedy many '50s viewers preferred, "Halls" lasted just one season, although its theme song gained radio popularity.

'Errors' is no mistake for two stars of new CBS miniseries

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

One is a specialist in quirky characters, the other is a familiar TV hero, and both are Emmy Award winners.

William H. Macy and Tom Selleck aren't the likeliest combination of actors, which is what attracted them to a new miniseries. They respectively play a lawyer and a homicide detective who reinvestigate a triple homicide - since the soon-to-be-executed man who claimed to be guilty is now recanting - in the CBS adaptation of "Presumed Innocent" author Scott Turow's best-selling thriller "Reversible Errors." Sunday and Tuesday, May 23 and 25.

As time grows short for the convict known as Squirrel (Glenn Plummer, "Speed"), the corporate attorney (Macy) pressed into drafting the supposed killer's final appeal seeks assistance from the ex-judge (Felicity Huffman, Macy's wife) who oversaw Squirrel's trial, then was sent to prison herself. Elsewhere, the original cop on the case (Selleck) teams with his politically ambitious ex-lover (Monica Potter, "Along Came a Spider") to get the guilty verdict upheld.

Macy typically favors offbeat roles, such as in "Fargo," "Door to Door" and last year's acclaimed "The Cooler." He has appeared on such series as "ER" and his wife's "Sports Night," but he has a rare broadcast-TV starring vehicle with "Reversible Errors." He says, "This has a very grown-up taste to it. It deals with a capital murder case, so that's one plot. The second plot is that the investigating cop and the prosecuting attorney were having an affair at the time, and that makes its own mark. Then, the third plot involves the original judge and the pro-bono defense attorney I play, and they also have an affair. Everything intertwines in a very interesting way."

Macy always is happy to team professionally with his spouse. "Because Felicity and I have known each other for so long," he says, "and because we have worked together so many times, starting on the stage in New York, we're brave. We actually talk about acting. We discuss the scenes and the moments and give each other suggestions, and further, we'll talk about technique. We love to do that, and strangely, that is a verboten subject for many actors; you're not allowed to discuss technique, or you're branded a bore."

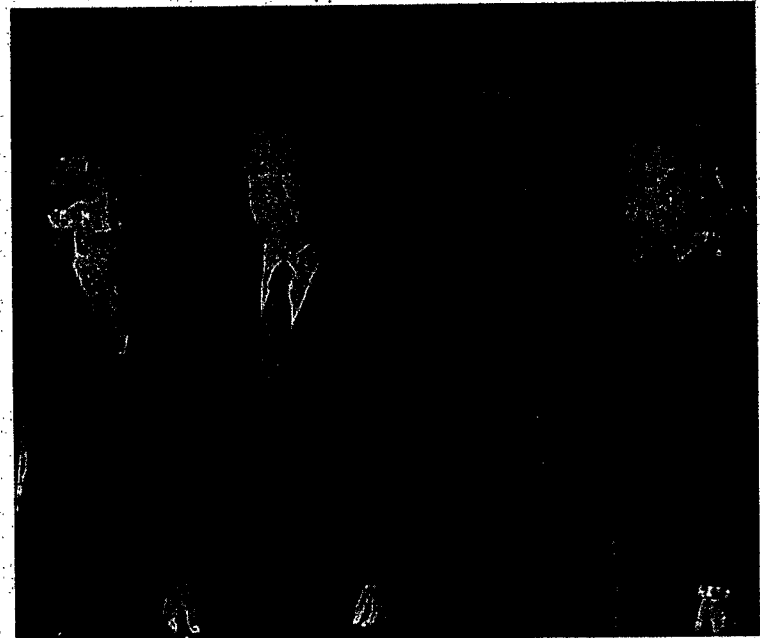

Another cast member made filming "Reversible Errors" a thrill for Macy. "I've been a fan of Tom Selleck for a long time - plus he's the only man in show business who has more unruly eyebrows than me!"

Similarly, the chance to work with Macy was a major lure for Selleck in making the "Reversible Errors" deal. "I did like the script a lot," Selleck says, "but when they said (Macy) was committed, I said, 'I want to do it.' He's a fine actor and a great guy, and he was just so right for that part."

Selleck likes the fallibility of his own "Reversible Errors" character, an aspect he also enjoyed playing in the TNT movies "Broken Trust" and "Running Mates." He appreciates "getting more and more chances to do that. I'm able to push the envelope a little more, but an actor has to be careful. You can do something as an acting exercise that no one accepts, and that's not really fair to the good people who pay you, so you do have to weigh that."

"The guy I play here certainly isn't the heavy of the piece," Selleck adds, "but he's tough enough and flawed enough to be interesting. I prefer movies that ultimately have a positive message, but you don't want to preach. A way to get around that is to establish a character the audience may like, though he does things they may not like. You really want the audience to say, 'Gee, I wish he wouldn't do that.'"

Such may be the reaction to Selleck in "Reversible Errors," which is fine with him. "The thing I really like is that the story unfolds through the evolution and the parallels of two relationships. My character is a very good cop, but he's not as skilled in his love life. I think he dearly loves Monica Potter's character, and he clearly would do anything for her. If he crosses the line, it's for her, and that's the key to making the audience understand what makes him tick. I was pleased when Scott Turow visited the set and was very happy with what I was doing. As written in the book, you probably wouldn't cast me in this part off the top of your head, but (Turow) communicated that he thought I 'got' it. That meant a lot to me."

Country music is in, and on, the air again at awards show

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Whether they're veterans or newcomers, the stars of country music show unity at many events.

One such event is the Academy of Country Music Awards, so a lot of famous faces will be in Las Vegas as CBS televises the 39th annual ceremony Wednesday, May 26. Fresh from her tribute at last month's CMT Flameworthy Video Music Awards (and the season finale of her WB Network sitcom), Reba McEntire will be the host for the third consecutive year.

She's also a scheduled performer on the show - originating from the Mandalay Bay Resort & Casino - as are Martina McBride, Toby Keith, Alan Jackson, George Strait, Brooks & Dunn, Kenny Chesney, Keith Urban, Rascal Flatts, Brad Paisley, Alison Krauss, Terri Clark, Montgomery Gentry and Lonestar.

McBride is an Academy of Country Music (or ACM) Awards favorite, having been named top female vocalist the past two years. She's up for the honor again, along with three others: album of the year ("Martina"), video of the year ("Concrete Angel"), and the Home Depot humanitarian award. "It's been a good couple of years," McBride reflects. "I don't really know what the deal is. I just keep working hard and making music I believe in. I've had a career built the old-fashioned way, one step at a time, and having such success is really neat."

It's also meaningful to others as well as to McBride, since many of her songs concern social issues. "Concrete Angel" focuses on child abuse, while "Independence Day" deals with domestic violence. "This One's for the Girls" is rowdier, but its theme of female power also has greater meaning than simply being a country-chart hit.

"I've been really fortunate to have found songs that seem to strike a chord in people," McBride says. And she's getting many chances to perform them. Now touring with Alan Jackson, she maintains the schedule is "really pretty easy. We basically have three shows a week, and we've had breaks of up to 10 days, so it's not as constant as other touring I've done. I've been out for two or three weeks without getting home, and now that my kids are in school, I can't really do that."

Sampling a similar regimen - as well as his first ACM nomination - is Buddy Jewell, a contender for top new artist. After more than a decade of professional struggles, he hit the big time last year as the first winner of USA Network's "Nashville Star" competition. On that show's second-season premiere, Jewell was handed a gold record for selling more than 500,000 copies of his self-titled debut album (produced by Clint Black).

Some may dismiss the potential for an enduring music star to spring from a TV contest, but Jewell dismisses that in turn. "A lot of people ask me about that," he says. "But man, if you can get a record deal, more power to you. I don't care how you got it. If it's fulfilling your dream and you didn't kill anyone or break any laws to do it, you're doing good."

Jewell's ACM bid confirms that for him, especially a year into his country stardom. "I was nominated last fall for the Horizon award at the Country Music Association Awards, and I felt kind of funny about that because I hadn't been around all that long. Now, having had back-to-back singles in the top five ('Help Pour Out the Rain,' 'Sweet Southern Comfort'), I feel a lot more comfortable. It's like country music putting its arms around you and saying, 'Hey, welcome to the fold.'"

Martina McBride, named top female vocalist at the Academy of Country Music Awards the past two years, goes for three in a row at this year's event. CBS televises the 39th annual edition of the ceremony Wednesday from the Mandalay Bay Resort & Casino in Las Vegas.

Feet of clay may doom U.S. men at French Open

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

Tennis on a clay court demands patience.

Softer than the hard-court surface of the U.S. Open and tackier than Wimbledon grass, clay courts such as those found at Paris' Roland Garros Stadium, home of the French Open, slow down rocket serves and ground strokes and cause higher, slower bounces, thus requiring a player to take six or seven shots to play a point rather than one or two. That translates into longer matches, which calls stamina and endurance into play.

Because of that, says NBC's Ted Robinson, American men such as Andy Roddick will be at a disadvantage. "We often, in our country, like to refer to players from other parts of the world who play so well on clay as clay-court specialists," says Robinson, who will call the action at this year's French Open, which begins Monday, May 24, and runs through June 6 on ESPN, ESPN2 and NBC. "But the reality is that many of those players have now established that they can play on other surfaces, particularly on hard courts, (and) they come to America and they do well."

"American players, for the most part, have either ignored or played very poorly in the European clay-court tournaments. And living proof is ... the first clay-court tournament of the year, which was a major event in Monte Carlo, I think virtually every American man pulled out before the event started. So it does really lead you to believe that American men right now don't place as much importance on the French Open. Certainly, they don't want to invest the time and effort to refine the game on clay that you need to succeed in an event like that. And the American men seem to be far more interested, obviously, in the prestige of Wimbledon and being ready for the U.S. Open."

So if Roddick, James Blake, Andre Agassi and others aren't factors in Paris this year, who will be? "First of all, you start with Gustavo Kuerten," Robinson says of the Brazilian known as Guga, "whose standing (No. 17 at press time) right now is not as high as others, but is still a three-time champion. I would always give Gustavo Kuerten, as long as he's healthy ... a chance."

"There's a Guillermo Coria from Argentina - this guy's a tremendous player. He played very well at the French last year, and this is a guy that, without question, can win this event. He's shown that he can play on clay. Actually, the Argentines have a whole slew of players - Gaston Gaudio, who's a very talented player. There's an Agustin Calleri. These, again, are names that are all foreign names to Americans, but these guys are very talented clay-court players."

"Now then, you throw in the favorites, which of course would be the Spaniards, led by the defending champion Juan Carlos Ferrero; a past French Open champion who's playing very well again in Carlos Moya; a younger Spaniard who seems to be emerging now and solidifying his game, which is Tommy Robredo. Probably those three would be the leading contenders."

On the women's side, Robinson's field of favorites is narrower. "I think the mystery and the intrigue of this year's French women's is to see whether the improvement that Justine Henin-Hardenne made while Serena and Venus (Williams) were away - winning two titles, seizing the No. 1 ranking - does that mean that now she can compete on an equal footing in a major with Serena?"

"Certainly, Justine proved she can do it at the French last year when she knocked Serena out. But I think to see if she has the ability to do it again is going to be a major intrigue to me. Is Kim Clijsters going to be able to come back from her injury and play at her normal level?"

"And can Venus come back?" Robinson wonders. "Venus, to me, of the sisters, that's the much bigger question. It's clear that coming back, so far, Venus has struggled much more to regain form. She certainly doesn't have the confidence that Serena has, anyway. So, heading into an event that Serena has won and Venus never has - what is her mindset and her emotional state? I think that's a very intriguing question."

"IRL Racing" Sunday, May 23 (ABC, 4 p.m. ET): Put the pedal to the floor and hope for the best. Essentially that's the strategy at the Indianapolis Time Trials, where today's bump day determines final pole positions for the 88th running of the Indianapolis 500 May 30. Racers routinely enter multiple cars hoping to find the one tuned to perfection that will glide effortlessly along the 2.5-mile oval.

"MLB Baseball" Sunday, May 23 (ESPN, 8 p.m. ET): Quite a race is developing in the National League Central, where all six teams had at least 12 wins after 25 games. Two of those teams, Chicago and St. Louis, close out a three-game set tonight at Wrigley Field. That's where slugger Sammy Sosa recently became the Cubbies' all-time home run leader with 513. He's also whiffed plenty of times.

"NHL Hockey" Tuesday, May 25 (ESPN, 8 p.m. ET): Who says the so-called small-market teams can't compete in the NHL? The Mighty Ducks of Anaheim came out of obscurity to reach the 2003 Stanley Cup Finals, much the same way stingy spenders Calgary or San Jose emerged from the Western Conference this year. Philadelphia or Tampa Bay represents the East in tonight's opening battle for Lord Stanley's cup, which could run until June 7 if, like last season, seven games are needed to decide the winner.

Movie: There's Something About Mary

The lowbrow humor of Peter and Bobby Farrelly ("Dumb & Dumber") never will win any Oscars, but their 1998 comedy was a huge hit. Much praise went to Cameron Diaz, cute button as Mary, a former high-school dreamboat whose near-date for the prom, Ted (Ben Stiller), has never forgotten her. When the private detective (Matt Dillon) he hires to find Mary also becomes smitten with her, does Ted lie and keep her for himself?

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX
American Idol

Two years ago, Fox realized it had a new hit on its hands with the singing competition, and the network has been riding the wave ever since. A few days before the third "Idol" is announced, the new special edition "The Phenomenon" recaps all that has happened since the series originally premiered. The steps that turned Kelly Clarkson, Ruben Studdard, Clay Aiken and even host Ryan Seacrest into stars are recapped.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

Movie: Reversible Errors

Based on the best seller by Scott Turow, this new miniseries — ending Tuesday — stars William H. Macy ("Doc to Go") as a lawyer helped by an ex-convict judge (Felicity Huffman) in trying to prevent the execution of a man (Glenn Plummer, "Speed") found guilty of a triple homicide. Working against them are a district-attorney candidate and her detective ex-lover (Monica Potter, "Tom Sells").

Jill Hennessy

8 p.m. and PSC

Quest for Columbus: In Search of the Santa Maria

Despite the legend that ties the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria together, only two of the three ships returned to Spain. This new special probes what happened to the Santa Maria and its 39 crew members, who were dead by the time Christopher Columbus made his way back to the New World. A University of Florida archaeologist may have located a fort built by, and for, the stranded men as they awaited rescue.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Crossing Jordan

A storm causes a body to wash ashore in the new episode "Dead in the Water." The woman is identified as the long-missing daughter of a politician, and Lily (Kathryn Hahn) helps Jordan (Jill Hennessy) determine the circumstances of the death. A plastic surgeon's (guest star Patrick Cassidy) operation on his partner, who died after being nipped and tucked, is probed by Macy and Bug (Miguel Ferrer, Ravi Kapoor).

Pink is Andrea Evans' signature color

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

If you're like Julia Roberts in "Steel Magnolias" and pink is your signature color, you just may want to get your bid in on Andrea Evans' (Rebecca) wedding dress from "Passions." The blush-pink, silk, size 6 gown is what she wore for her walk down the aisle to marry Julian (Ben Masters).

Pink is also the ribbon color of choice for breast cancer awareness, and as the daughter of a survivor, Evans is very involved with the City of Hope's biomedical research and treatment facility.

For the fourth year in a row, the Daytime Emmy-nominated actress (for "One Life to Live") will serve as the celebrity ambassador for the City of Hope's Walk for Hope to Cure Breast Cancer.

"I go to walks all over the country," she says. "It is a cause that affects women, and in daytime that is who a huge percentage of your audience is."

But before Evans was involved with the organization, she went through a rough six years during which she was forced to give up her acting career because of a stalker. "The only reason I went public with it was to help get stronger laws, and I think we did that," she says. "I think having been through such a trying experience that is greatly a woman's problem, and primarily women who are not famous, I associate myself more with women's causes."

So on Thursday, May 27, during the City of Hope's Harbor of Hope dinner cruise, Evans' wedding gown, created by "Passions" costume designer Diana Eden, will be auctioned off. To purchase a ticket, which are $125, or for additional information, call (213) 202-5735, ext. 26347.

Dear Paulette: I was watching a movie on Lifetime called "Unwed Father" that had an actress named Nicholle Tom. I need to know if she is any relation to Heather and David Tom (ex-"Y&R," currently "OLTL"). - Curious in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Dear Reader: You've got a good eye. Nicholle and David, 26, are twins, and sister Heather is 2 1/2 years older. Nicholle starred for years as Charles Shaughnessy's (ex-Shane, "Days") daughter on "The Nanny."

Send questions of general interest to Paulette Cohn, Soap Talk, Zap2it, 333 Glen St., Glens Falls, NY 12801, or e-mail to soaptalk@tribune.com. Only questions selected for this column will be answered. Personal replies cannot be sent.

Movie: A Beautiful Mind
Four Oscars — including best picture — went to director Ron Howard's fact-based 2001 drama about Nobel Prize winner John Nash, who struggles daily to balance the forces of mathematical genius and schizophrenia that are battling for control of his brilliant intellect. Russell Crowe plays Nash, leading a cast that also includes Jennifer Connelly (an Oscar winner for the film), Ed Harris and Christopher Plummer.

Jimmy and Christine (Mike O'Malley, Liza Snyder) start questioning how close Mr. Savitsky (guest star Brian Doyle-Murray) is getting to their family in "Living With Mr. Savitsky," which wraps up the sitcom's fourth season. Jimmy starts chauffeuring the suddenly unlicensed-to-drive Savitsky to and from work, eventually prompting Savitsky to invite the couple and their children to live in his guest house.

Colonial House
The modern participants are more accustomed to their 17th-century-like surroundings as the new miniseries continues with the two-hour episode "Regime Change/Shake Up," but that doesn't mean they're entirely happy with the circumstances. Power over the colony switches over to a new governor, and the colonists must work hard to prove themselves worthy to a visiting representative of the sponsoring company.

The Restaurant
After the round he's had lately, Rocco DiSpirito seems to have faced every challenge a restaurateur could have — including a financial backer trying to push him out of the business. The chef puts a coda on the second season of this unscripted series by proving he's still around, and still determined to remain a success in his chosen field.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS
CSI: Miami
The strangulation death of a porn actress (guest star Deanna Wright) sets the CSI team on the trail of her films' distributor, a registered sex offender, as the crime drama ends its second season with "Innocent." American Idol

Viewers' phoned-in votes on this night will count for everything, since the results will determine which of the two finalists is crowned the third "American Idol" in the show's season finale the following evening. Those last two contenders can be counted upon to sing their hearts out, with judges Paula Abdul, Simon Cowell and Randy Jackson weighing in with their thoughts — and possibly impacting the outcome.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

ABC Extreme Bloopers

It wouldn't be a network "sweeps" period without an outtakes special, and this new one gets in just under the wire. Traditional "Bloopers"-meister Dick Clark is joined by "Less Than Perfect" star Sara Rue to introduce gaffes from her show, as well as other ABC series such as "Hope & Faith," "George Lopez" and "According to Jim." Clips from audition tapes for "Extreme Makeover" also are included.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Navy NCIS

Gibbs (Mark Harmon) has a decisive showdown with an old enemy as the "JAG" spinoff ends its first season with "Reveille." The terrorist (guest star Rudolf Martin) who wounded him in a hostage crisis resurfaces, and Gibbs is determined to stop the villain's threat to the presidents of the United States and Israel. Jessica Steen ("Armageddon") also guest stars.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Traffic

Director Steven Soderbergh, screenwriter Stephen Gaghan and co-star Benicio Del Toro all won Oscars for this engrossing 2000 drama movie about the international narcotics trade. Three stories intersect as an American drug czar (Michael Douglas) finds his daughter addicted, a Mexican policeman (Del Toro) stops looking the other way, and a trafficker's wife (Catherine Zeta-Jones) seeks revenge. Don Cheadle also stars.

7 p.m. and 19-PBS

Colonial House

The miniseries concludes with the two-hour episode "The Reckoning/Judgment Day," as the mutual displeasure between Governor Heinz and sponsor delegate Lecza festers. The outcome of the harvest suggests a bright future for the colony — but as the results of the experiment in 17th-century living are announced, the participants find it challenging to readjust to their 21st-century lives.

7 p.m. on ESPN

NHL Hockey

Who says the so-called small-market teams can't compete in the NHL? The Mighty Ducks of Anaheim came out of obscurity to reach the 2003 Stanley Cup Finals, much the same way stingy spenders Calgary or San Jose emerged from the Western Conference this year. Philadelphia or Tampa Bay represents the East in tonight's opening battle for Lord Stanley's cup, which could run until June 7 if, like last season, seven games are needed to decide the winner.

The suspense series will be back next season, but there's no guarantee the current characters will return with it. As the drama's third year ends with "Day 3: 12:00 PM — 1:00 PM," counterterrorism agent Jack Bauer and his partner Chase (Kiefer Sutherland, James Badge Dale) reach the moment of truth regarding the virus that could affect millions. Tony (Carlos Bernard) may be sentenced to death for his breach of duty.

8:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

According to Jim

After a pregnancy-related false alarm, Cheryl (Courtney Thorne-Smith) wants Jim (Jim Belushi) to have a vasectomy as the sitcom ends its third season with "A Vast Difference." He agrees to do so, and Cheryl's endless gratitude makes it increasingly tougher for him to tell her that he ultimately couldn't go through with the procedure. Jason Kravits ("The Practice") guest stars.

8:30 p.m. on 54-UPN

Rock Me Baby

Beth (Bianca Kajlich) feels rejected after supporting Pam's (Tammy Townsend) endeavor to be a professional singer, then being cast aside when a manager wants to steer Pam's career, in the season-ending episode "Singing for Your Supper." After breaking up with Pam, Carl (Carl Anthony Payne) goes on a liquid diet, R&B star Tamia guest stars as herself.

Movie: Ace Ventura: Pet Detective

Jim Carrey brings his trademark manic goofiness to the title role in this 1994 comedy, which lives in infamy for its famous talking-buttocks scene. Sean Young and Courteney Cox also star, and several Dolphins (the football-playing kind) have cameos.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS

Japan: Memoirs of a Secret Empire

Between the 16th and 19th centuries, the western world was virtually in the dark about what happened within the borders of Japan, which was a warlord-controlled land. Richard Chamberlain, who enacted the period in the classic TV miniseries "Shogun," narrates the program.

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Movie: America's Sweethearts

An impressive cast fuels this 2001 comedy, with Catherine Zeta-Jones and John Cusack getting top billing as married movie stars on the verge of splitting up as their big new film opens. That generates endless headaches for the picture's publicist (Billy Crystal, who co-wrote the script) and the Zeta-Jones character's sister (Julia Roberts), who also is her assistant.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

The WB Presents Pepsi Smash

Resuming the warm-weather tradition the network established last summer, this concert series returns for a second season. The first show — with Nick Zano ("What I Like About You") and Rachel Perry of VH1 as hosts — is slated to feature Limp Bizkit, Counting Crows and Lenny Kravitz. Weekly on-the-road segments will showcase acts like Aerosmith, Sting and John Mayer on their summer concert tours.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

CSI: Crime Scene Investigation

Being sequestered doesn't protect one member of a jury from becoming a murder victim in "Eleven Angry Jurors." The prime suspects are obvious, leaving Grissom (William Petersen) and his team to determine who killed the one person who refused to declare the defendant not guilty.

8 p.m. and BRAV

Celebrity Poker Showdown

Gamblers who have familiar faces as well as poker faces ante up as this series starts its second season. Dave Foley ("NewsRadio") takes over as host of the show, which encompasses two tournaments. This round features country music star Travis Tritt, Mena Suvari ("American Beauty"), Wanda Sykes ("Wanda at Large"), NFL star Jerome Bettis and Rosario Dawson ("Josie and the Pussycats").

Friday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Movie: Someone Like You

Based on the Laura Zigman novel "Animal Husbandry," this 2001 comedy — directed by actor Tony Goldwyn ("Ghost") — casts Ashley Judd as a talk show employee. Her general negativity toward men is fueled when her beau (Greg Kinnear) dumps her, so she resists the charms of her womanizing roommate (Hugh Jackman, "Van Helsing"). Marisa Tomei co-stars.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Reba

Where's Kyra (Scarlett Pomeroy)? That's the big question for everyone after she vanishes from Brock and Barbra Jean's (Christopher Rich, Melissa Peterman) house late at night in "Fight or Flight." Cheyenne (JoAnna Garcia) baffles Van (Steve Howey) by resisting an appearance with him on a sports-oriented cable show.

7 p.m. on AMC

Movie: The Dead Zone

It isn't hard to determine that this 1983 chiller springs from the mind of Stephen King. He had another best seller with the tale of a teacher (played by an ideally cast Christopher Walken) who emerges from a lengthy coma with the ability to "see" the past and the future. Martin Sheen, Tom Skerritt, Brooke Adams and Colleen Dewhurst also star.

7 p.m. on FAM

Movie: Good Will Hunting

Robin Williams won his first Oscar for this 1997 drama, and co-stars Matt Damon and Ben Affleck shared a statuette for best screenplay. Will (Damon) is working as a janitor at a university when his amazing talent for math is discovered by a professor who encourages him to use it. Movie: Raiders of the Lost Ark

Saturday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Movie: Ali

Will Smith was an Oscar nominee for his performance as the heavyweight boxing champ — whose personal life has been as colorful as his style in the ring — in director Michael Mann's ("Heat") biographical 2001 drama. The film examines the former Cassius Clay's relationships with right-hand man Drew "Bundini" Brown (Jamie Foxx) and sportscaster Howard Cosell (a heavily made-up Jon Voight), and the controversies Muhammad Ali stirred.

7 p.m. on AMC

Movie: Navy SEALs

Starring Charlie Sheen and Michael Biehn, this 1990 film may be lacking in the military specs department, but it works if viewers are looking for an action flick. While on a mission to the Middle East, a SEAL team fails to destroy some discovered missiles. The decision comes back to bite the SEALs when a terrorist gets possession of the weapons. Bill Paxton, Dennis Haysbert, Cyril O'Reilly and Rick Rossovich co-star.

7 p.m. on USA

Movie: Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom

After the success of "Raiders of the Lost Ark," producer George Lucas and director Steven Spielberg came up with a blockbuster of a first sequel in 1984. Harrison Ford is back as archaeologist and adventurer Jones, who seeks a magical stone on a quest that leads him to masses of enslaved children. Kate Capshaw, now the real-life Mrs. Spielberg, co-stars.

8 p.m. on HALL

Movie: For a Few Dollars More

Clint Eastwood again dons the poncho that made him an international superstar in this 1965 sequel to "A Fistful of Dollars," the Italian-made Western that was his launching pad to worldwide fame. Returning as the silent but lethal Man With No Name, he partners with a rival gunslinger (Lee Van Cleef) to hunt a common enemy, a drug-addict bandit (Gian Maria Volonte).

8:45 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Down With Love

The style of 1950s and '60s romantic comedies is emulated by director Peyton Reed ("Bring It On") in this frothy 2003 — what else? — romantic comedy. Renee Zellweger plays an advice columnist who can't help but fall for a womanizing journalist (Ewan McGregor), though his reputation precedes him by miles. David Hyde Pierce ("Frasier") is in the sort of sidekick role. Tony Randall used to fill for Doris Day and Rock Hudson.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: Face/Off

A miracle of modern medicine — a face transplant — gives an FBI agent (John Travolta) the mug of a comatose terrorist (Nicolas Cage). The plan is to fool the villain's brother and get information about an intended germ attack. But things go awry when the bad boy revives and steals the fed's face. Joan Allen, Gina Gershon and Dominique Swain ("Lolita") also star in director John Woo's far-fetched but fun 1997 action thriller.

7 p.m. on BRAV

Movie: Reservoir Dogs

Quentin Tarantino began to make a name for himself as a maverick writer-director with this effectively, memorably brutal 1992 crime drama. It follows several jewel thieves in the aftermath of a heist, with extensive flashbacks explaining how the robbery ended up as it did. The ideal cast includes Harvey Keitel, Tim Roth, Michael Madsen, Chris Perin, Steve Buscemi, "B"-movie veteran Lawrence Tierney and Tarantino himself.

7 p.m. on HBO

Elaine Stritch at Liberty

Well-known to New York theatergoers, veteran actress Stritch gets more of a national platform than usual with this presentation of her Tony Award-winning one-woman show. Backstage footage shot by documentary makers D.A. Pennebaker, Chris Hegedus and Nick Doob is included. Even then, the focus stays on the famously frank Stritch's personal stories about life and work, which are alternately riotous and poignant.

8 p.m. on TBS

Movie: Romeo Must Die

Martial artist Jet Li and singer Aaliyah star in this action-packed 2000 update of "Romeo and Juliet." Li plays an ex-cop from Hong Kong who comes to California seeking information on his brother's death. Aaliyah plays the daughter of the man who runs the black mob, which is battling an Asian-American crime organization. They become not only lovers — to their families' dismay, of course — but partners in crime-solving.

9:30 p.m. on AMC

Movie: The Boys in Company C

The rigors faced by several young Marines during the Vietnam War are detailed in director and co-writer Sidney J. Furie's 1978 drama. Stan Shaw, Andrew Stevens, James Canning, Michael Lembeck (who went on to become a comedy director) and Craig Wasson play soldiers desperate to find a way home — or at least out of combat. Soccer seems to be their lifeline, literally and figuratively. R. Lee Ermy ("Full Metal Jacket") co-stars.

SATURDAY EVENING / MAY 29

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide, the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"THE LORD OF THE RINGS: THE RETURN OF THE KING": After achieving the rare feat of winning every Academy Award it was up for - including best picture - the final chapter of J.R.R. Tolkien's trilogy makes its video debut. The journey of the Hobbit named Frodo (Elijah Wood), who is out to destroy the evil-causing ring at Mount Doom, reaches its climax following an epic battle that involves Aragorn and Legolas (Viggo Mortensen, Orlando Bloom). Director Peter Jackson also allows fellow cast members Sean Astin, Ian McKellen, Liv Tyler, Dominic Monaghan, Billy Boyd and Andy Serkis to take their final bows in their respective roles. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; "making-of" documentaries; DVD-ROM features. * (PG-13: P, V)

"WELCOME TO MOOSEPORT": In this mild comedy, a former U.S. president (Gene Hackman) decides to keep his hand in politics, much to the dismay of the small-town businessman (Ray Romano, "Everybody Loves Raymond") who becomes his rival in a Maine mayoral campaign. Upping the stakes is the ex-chief executive's romantic play for his competitor's girl friend (Maura Tierney, "ER"). The agreeable cast also includes Marcia Gay Harden, Rip Torn, Christine

Video Vantage

Baranski and Fred Savage ("The Wonder Years"). DVD extras: audio commentary by director Donald Patric; deleted scenes; outtakes.  (PG-13: AS, P)

"BUBBA HO-TEP": Best-known for the "Phantasm" horror movies, writer-director Don Coscarelli switches gears somewhat with this entertaining, meant-to-be-cheesy saga about the supposed survivals of Elvis Presley (Bruce Campbell) and John F. Kennedy (Ossie Davis... yes, Ossie Davis; the film explains). They live in a Texas retirement home where the strange deaths of fellow residents ultimately pit them against a soul-stealing zombie (Bob Ivy). "Phantasm" staple Reggie Bannister co-stars. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentaries by Campbell (as himself and as Elvis), Davis, Ivy, Coscarelli, executive producer Dac Coscarelli and story originator Joe R. Lansdale; "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; animated photo gallery.  (R: AS, P, V)

"THE WINDS OF WAR - SPECIAL COLLECTOR'S EDITION": One of television's landmark miniseries, producer-director Dan Curtis ("Dark Shadows") lengthy and involving 1983 adaptation of Herman Wouk's novel has a huge and notable cast. Robert Mitchum stars as Victor "Pug" Henry, a career Navy man who struggles to keep his personal and professional lives on a steady course as the conflicts between other countries eventually draw the United States into active participation in World War II. Ali MacGraw, Jan-Michael Vincent, Victoria Tennant, John Houseman, Polly Bergen, Ralph Bellamy, David Dukes, Peter Graves and Lisa Eilbacher also star. DVD extras: "making-of" documentaries.  (Not rated: AS, P, V)

"NORTHERN EXPOSURE: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON": One of the most unconventional series in broadcast TV history, for several reasons, makes its DVD debut. The off-beat CBS hit, which had a summer debut when summer was strictly a "burn-off" period for new shows, revolves around a young New York doctor (Rob Morrow) who has to practice in Alaska to pay off his bill for medical school. Even worse for him - at least initially - he must serve in Cicely, a tiny town in the middle of nowhere. The colorful supporting cast includes Janine Turner, Barry Corbin, Elaine Miles, John Corbett ("Sex and the City") and Broadway veteran John Cullum. DVD extras: "making-of" documentary; extended and deleted scenes; outtakes; home-movie footage.  (Not rated: AS, P)

"GROWING UP BRADY": Barry Williams got a best-selling book out of his behind-the-scenes experiences while playing Greg on the TV classic "The Brady Bunch," and this made-for-NBC 2000 movie dramatizes a good number of them. The situations include clashes between actor Robert Reed and series creator Sherwood Schwartz (Daniel Hugh Kelly, Michael Tucker), and Williams' (Adam Brody, "The O.C.") romantic pursuit of co-star Maureen McCormick (Kaley Cuoco, "8 Simple Rules"). Scott Lookinland, the son of original "Bobby Brady" Mike Lookinland, also appears.  (Not rated: AS, P)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"THE COMPANY" (June 1): Neve Campbell ("Party of Five"), who also co-wrote the story, stars in director Robert Altman's drama about an aspiring ballet dancer. (PG-13: AS, P)

'The Restaurant' dishes up a food fight with torts, not tarts

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

Rocco DiSpirito, the celebrity chef nominally at the helm of NBC's "The Restaurant," has publicists, assistants, drivers, exquisite taste and a refined sensibility which he is trying to parlay into an empire now that Martha Stewart has been deposed.

All that, but alas, he seems to have no watch. Those who work with him confide he habitually runs late. The disarming fact about DiSpirito, however, is that when he does arrive he is so charming, most people probably forget their annoyance.

The finale of "The Restaurant" documenting the business woes between DiSpirito and financier Jeffrey Chodorow airs Monday, May 24. As rancorous as it is between them on the reality show (the finale was taped in December), the true reality is uglier.

As with any fight that needs to be settled by the courts, each side's version is wildly different. "He says a lot of things that unfortunately aren't true," Chodorow says.

"The only reason I am with him is financial," DiSpirito says. "He's certainly not charming or good-looking. ... He hasn't spoke to me in six months. He sued me in February. He said he was losing money. I wasn't allowed to look at the books."

A core of truth is at the bottom of this food fight: Chodorow agrees he is the financial backer. Indeed, he says he owns Rocco's, which has been chronicled on "The Restaurant." DiSpirito maintains it is a 50/50 split.

DiSpirito has countersued over the ownership of Rocco's. Chodorow originally secured the space on East 22nd Street for a Japanese restaurant, Ono. (When he told his wife he was opening another restaurant, her response was, "Oh, no!") When other potential locations for Rocco's fell through, Chodorow allowed Ono's site to be used.

DiSpirito's comment about being refused access to the books is striking because Chodorow offers a reporter the option of reading his ledgers, the lawsuits and documents proving he is the 100 percent owner of Rocco's.

"The restaurant that bears my name is under the control of a guy who does not know good food," DiSpirito says, disparaging Chodorow's other restaurants as more corporate than creative.

"I'm happy to go with my first deal if I could have some integrity," DiSpirito says. The problem is, Chodorow says, "There is no written agreement."

This is the stuff Judge Judy makes short work of, telling the disaffected party that an oral agreement is worth as much as the paper it is on.

"I thought his heart was in the project," Chodorow says. "I didn't get paid one dime for this show." So, why do it? "I looked at it in this way: I have a highly regarded chef go back to his roots and do a restaurant with his family. It's a concept of food I love. And an NBC prime-time show is going to be worth millions and millions in publicity. So, how could you miss?"

As of press time, Chodorow has lost $900,000 because of Rocco's.

Though DiSpirito has spent $700,000 in legal fees, and has a slew of other problems, he does not wallow in resentment.

On a recent rainy spring day, DiSpirito appears on two radio shows, then stops in at Union Pacific, the Gramercy Park eatery that propelled him into the pantheon of Manhattan super chefs seven years ago. It is only late morning and he still has a CNN interview scheduled, and meetings with lawyers and a pasta chef among others.

Wearing blue jeans, a button-down shirt and a navy blazer, DiSpirito sequesters himself upstairs in a private room of Union Pacific. The restaurant, which was recently renovated for $350,000, features a waterfall and raspberry colored walls. In a private dining room, where a brushed copper table is set for business, DiSpirito drinks bottled water, runs his hands through permanently tousled hair and tries to make sense of the hurricane swirling around him. It is, incidentally, a hurricane of his own making.

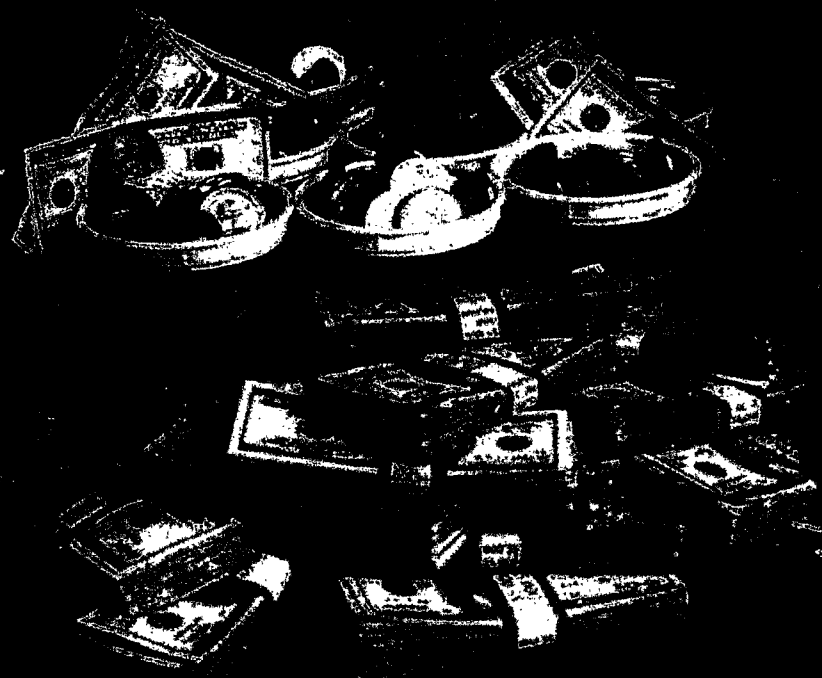

"It's been a little strange," he says of the past year. "What's the word? Tumultuous. Be careful what you wish for comes to mind."

Union Pacific was recently demoted a star in The New York Times, which may not seem like much to those outside of New York, but that lost star cost him 30 percent in business.

He also broke up with his girlfriend, but DiSpirito, 37, has so many projects going, he has no time to be mired in misery.

Chef Rocco DiSpirito of NBC's Monday reality hit "The Restaurant" says, "I have a lot going on. I'm happy this way. I have more ideas than I can ever execute. ... They're a natural evolution of my business."
